LENT IN THE HOLY LAND

CANA OF GALILEE, where Christ turned water into wine and with a word healed a nobleman's son, sick at Capernaum, is also the birthplace of Nathaniel, one of His early disciples. Three sites have been selected as ancient Cana, but this one, northeast of Nazareth, is favored by ecclesiastical authorities.

STRIKE HALTS TRAMWAY SERVICE

LONDON, March 22.—(By the Associated Press) Tramway and omnibus service shut down today as a result of a strike of employees for higher wages and a sympathetic walkout by the omnibus men. The first sufferers were hundreds of night workers employed by newspapers, hotels and central markets who depend on the trams to reach their homes, as railroads here shut down soon after midnight for some hours. About 3500 omnibuses are tied up, depriving not only London itself but many rural and semi-rural areas of cheap transportation as many of the bus routes extend to places 20 or 30 miles outside the city.

REBELS EVACUATE OAXACA CITY

MEXICO CITY, March 22.—Special despatches from Puebla report that Oaxaca City was evacuated three days ago by rebels under Enrique Brena, and Fortunato Maynott, who decided not to resist the federal advance. The rebels marched into the mountains.

DOCTOR IN DOVER COMMENDS "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

This Wonderful Fruit Medicine Relieved Torturing Eczema

Dover, New Hampshire.

"In 1906 I began to be troubled with Eczema. It started on my face and gradually spread. The second summer, I was so badly afflicted I had to lay off work. I would keep my hands tied up at night to prevent driving into my flesh while asleep. I spent hundreds of dollars in seeking relief. I would go for several months without trouble and then the Eczema would break out again and I would be in for a season of suffering.

My hands, especially across the knuckles, would be so puffed and swollen I could not do any obstetrical work or operations. It was about three months ago I chanced to read an advertisement of 'Fruit-a-tives' about a person being relieved of Weeping Eczema by using this remedy and 'Sootha Salva.' I bought both and in about a week noticed an improvement. I have now used two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and one of 'Sootha Salva' and am entirely free of Eczema.

"My flesh is clear and smooth and I am that gratified with the results that I cannot proclaim too loudly the merits of these remedies."

E. N. DIZENDAM, D.V.M.

"Fruit-a-tives" act so excellently on Eczema because these wonderful tablets, made from fruit juices and tonics, first of all rid the system of toxic purities. "Fruit-a-tives" regulate the bowels, correct the constipation which is usually present in Eczema, the blood is pure and there are no impurities to be deposited on the skin, causing Eczema, Pimples and other Skin blemishes.

If you have any skin trouble, such as Eczema, try "Fruit-a-tives" one box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. All dealers or sent by FRUIT-A-TIVES LIMITED, OGDENSBURG, N. Y. Ottawa, Can. London, Eng. Christchurch, N. Z.—Adv.

PASSION PLAYERS MADE DEEP IMPRESSION AT CAPITAL

Democratic Women Have Opened Headquarters in Washington and Are Quite Active in Promoting Party Organization—Republican Women Inactive

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.—The great iron gates that shut off the White House from the street were thrown wide open to admit the group of Passion Players from Oberammergau. The sidewalks were lined with hundreds of persons waiting to catch a glimpse of the famous players as they entered the grounds; camera men by the dozen snapped them as they filed up the granite steps and into the door of the White House offices; men and women craned their necks, newspaper men crowded round, and the scene was a typical one of the many in which Washington greets its foreign visitors.

But this little band of players created something more than ordinary interest; it was like a bit of sacred history, a sort of mid-legend story brought to our midst, and which didn't lose its force, even though the players were dressed in "everyday" garments and chatted freely among themselves while waiting to be received by the President.

Anton Lang, the Christus of the Passion play, is tall, stockily built, with long dark hair tinted with a ruddy hue, and so thick that it fairly bushes out at the sides; his beard is long, curly and of the same ruddy brown; his face is firm, fine and interesting. So imbued with the spirit of the Passion play has he become in the thirty years he has continuously played the part of Christus, that when one compares his face with the face of Christ as painted by the great artists, a close resemblance is noted. Lang might have sat as model for the Head of Christ by De Vries, or those of Bellini, Murillo or Bartholomae. It is a face long to be remembered, even though seen today only in the midst of secular surroundings and political chatter which filled the White House office, where the players, the newspaper men and officials and visitors stood side by side. There were fourteen in the Lang party, including both men and women. The men were of varied type, and after Lang, the one attracting the most attention was Guido Mayre, who plays the part of Judas. Like Lang, he has ruddy brown hair and beard, but of a somewhat lighter shade. Like Lang his eyes are serious when he is in repose, but light up with a twinkle, if chatting with friends, for Lang, has "smiling eyes" when he greets friends, and at odd moments. The women of the party were quietly dressed in soft dark colors, close fitting hats and hair drawn smoothly back in becoming waves. All chatted among themselves in low tones in a language the onlookers did not understand.

And what did the crowd of onlookers do? They stared openly, crowded as close as the guards would permit, and with their necks tilted and eyes fixed on the players, they did not take pains to conceal, just as the foreign visitors were perfectly poised and apparently unconscious of their surroundings. They had come to see the president of the United States and he was able to reply, though unquestionably received by him. They were wrapped up in their art and the rest of us didn't count for a penny's worth. As to the episode by which their gathering the clans for the next visit was cut short, the facts have been already been reported in the press and resulted entirely from a desire on the part of the president to maintain diplomatic customs and a misunderstanding on the part of the visitors who undertook to deliver addresses.

Nick Longworth's Rejoinder. After Stevenson of South Carolina called Nick Longworth to account for all stock formerly owned by his wife and brother-in-law, Longworth retorted by suggesting a new rule be added to the House Manual under which the man for investigations could be shot through the capital at breakfast speed. "Why should not the rules of the house be so changed that when there is a roll call the members need not answer present, but instead shout back either 'guilty' or 'not guilty'."

Democratic Women Active. The democratic women of Washington are taking a big part in the pre-campaign program. Not only are political teas and lunches the order of the day with them, but the Democratic Women's club headquarters is furnishing a meeting place that is tremendously appreciated both by Washington women and visitors to the city, whose political affiliations are not always clear. The fortnightly Bulletin issued by the women of the democratic national committee, is giving a series of stories on the saving to housewives through the Garner tax bill. Thus far the republican women have not attempted to reply, though unquestionably received by him. They are wrapped up in their art and the rest of us didn't count for a penny's worth. As to the episode by which their gathering the clans for the next visit was cut short, the facts have been already been reported in the press and resulted entirely from a desire on the part of the president to maintain diplomatic customs and a misunderstanding on the part of the visitors who undertook to deliver addresses.

The democrats have enlisted women of the "common" national party, which enlarges experienced vote getters and women of the militant type of "practical politics" to help carry on the campaign and they are putting a lot of vim into the preliminary campaign. Anyhow, the women of the democratic party are getting a lot of publicity that the republican women are letting go by default. RICHARDS.

The World's Record

THE Metropolitan is mutually owned by its 21,000,000 policyholders. Its assets belong to the policyholders. They are accumulated to meet policy obligations and for no other purpose. Every policyholder is a capitalist—an investor—and his interest should be recognized by legislators and commissioners. The policyholders own over $313,000,000 in railroad securities; $606,000,000 in real estate mortgages; $80,000,000 in public utility bonds; $200,000,000 in Government obligations.

One person in every six in the United States and Canada is a holder of a Metropolitan policy—one of the safest forms of investment.

In 1923 the Metropolitan grew faster than any other life insurance company in the world; grew in income—in assets—and in the effectiveness of its campaign for better health for the whole country.

The Metropolitan sends trained nurses to the homes of thousands of Industrial (i. e. weekly premium) policyholders when they are sick. In 1923 these nurses made 2,482,919 visits.

While the average life span in the general population of the United States is 52½ years greater than it was 11 years ago, the life span of the Industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years in the same interval. This greater gain has resulted in large part from the Metropolitan's Health Service.

During 1923 the Metropolitan distributed 33,790,840 booklets and pamphlets dealing with health, general welfare and longer life. The total number of pieces distributed to date amounts to 305,990,507.

The Metropolitan arranges for free periodic health examinations for holders of Ordinary policies. Among those who availed themselves of this privilege, the death rate was found to be 28% lower than was expected for the group.

The Metropolitan cooperates with the companies to which it has issued group insurance for their employees—cooperates not only in giving insurance protection but also to promote better health, better working conditions, better living conditions and happier social conditions.

Life insurance, which cares for the home and family, is born of a deep sense of responsibility. When millions of people join in a mutual sharing of this responsibility the result is the splendid picture shown in the 1923 report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Never before has the world seen such a Business Statement nor had such an opportunity to look into the hearts of men and women, and to find there—Kindness.

Harry P. P. President.

JOSEPH FLYNN
Leading Man in "Twin Beds" at Academy

Fellow stock players who open in "Twin Beds" at the Academy under the management of Langdon R. Barbydt next Monday have dubbed Joseph Flynn "The Candy Kid" and this for an obvious reason. Mr. Flynn went to Hershey Park Pa. "the chocolate town" with the Ella Kramor Players, remaining two seasons after the latter's withdrawal from there. Mr. Flynn, who is a native Philadelphia and is 26 years old, is a seasoned stock and production man of the theatre. He is certain to make quite a hit with Lowell lovers of the spoken drama.

In securing "Twin Beds" for the opening week Manager Barbydt succeeded in a two weeks quest to obtain a vivacious, sparkling farce. Knowing the taste of the Lowell theatre-going public, exceptionally well as a result of his seasons of success (all management of the Lowell Opera House, he picked this play as the most likely looking of the hundreds available for the opening week. The advance seat sale has been conclusive proof that his taste will meet with endorsement by the theatre-goers of the city. REN LYON AND COLLEEN MOORE IN "PAINTED PEOPLE"

"Painted People," with Colleen Moore, the flaming youth girl, will be the stellar attraction on The Strand program for the first part of the week, starting with matinee on Sunday. The second feature on the bill will be "The Average Woman," with an all-star cast. The usual comedy and Weekly features will also be shown, to say nothing of the musical numbers.

The enthusiasm with which announcement is made of the coming of "Painted People" should arouse more than ordinary acclaim from the patrons of mollen pictures hereabouts. It's a First National production, and as such compares favorably with the very best ever shown on the screen. Miss Moore, who made one of the big hits of the year on the screen in "Flaming Youth," is said to have greater opportunity of reflecting dramatic ability. Miss Moore appears in the role of the Swamp Angel, a character from which the original title of the story was taken. In

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK

Famous Contralto to Be

Assisted Here by Florence
Hardeman, Violinist

After many years a resident of Long Island, Mme. Schumann-Heink, the famous contralto, has established her home in California, where she will spend her vacations between concert engagements in the future. She has bought a seaside estate at Coronado and a mountain house at Grasmont.

Madame was one of the first of the very few famous foreign singers to become an American citizen, having taken out her first papers nearly 20 years ago, and receiving her United States citizenship in 1904. This unsurpassed artist was born in Bohemia of a Czechoslovak father and an Italian mother, and won her first fame in the Imperial opera houses of Vienna and Berlin. For many years she was a distinguished annual guest in the Wagner seasons at Bayreuth, continuing these visits even after becoming an American. Her first appearance in America was with the Metropolitan Opera company, in which she was immediately placed in the highest rank by the press and public—a position which she has maintained ever since in opera and concert.

So many cities welcome her back year after year, and so regular have her concert engagements been that Schumann-Heink is regarded as an institution, and to most of the cities in her perennial circuit a concert season would not seem complete without her visit. The musical fare in this city is enhanced by the arrangement made for Mme. Schumann-Heink's recital on April 9, at the Auditorium, under the local management of Mr. Albert Steinert.

In her quarter of a century in this country Madame has had but three different managers, her present tour being under the direction of S. H. Hark, Inc., with whom she became associated for the first time this season. Under the same management are such international luminaries as Chaliapin, Pavlova, Alma Gluck, Enrico Zimbalist, Joseph Schwartz, Tia Boursky, Rudolph Peik, Alfred Hitchcock and the Chernavsky trio. Tickets for this concert have already been placed on sale at Steinert's, and the heavy demand at this early date presages a full house. More tickets at a popular price have been provided than usual.

entertainingly told and will surely meet with the approval of the average patron. Incidentally it tells a forceful and valued lesson from which much benefit might be had by those who need it—and there are many.

In addition to these features there will be a comedy and Weekly as well as musical numbers.

NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Afflictions of This Syracuse Woman Disappeared When She Built Up Her Blood

"I was nothing but a bunch of nerves," says Mrs. Alvin Grant, of No. 346½ South State street, Syracuse, N. Y. "and would get so excited that it seemed as if I would fly. I was melancholy at times and would have crying spells. I tried quickly and if I walked any distance would be out of breath. My heart action was irregular. I had headaches and mental depression and often felt a sort of inward trembling. My blood was poor and I lost weight."

"Friends induced me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after I had been under other treatment for months and I felt better after I had taken the first box. The nervous trembling was relieved and I could sit still. I got more color and gained in strength. The melancholy spells did not return. I rest well at night and wake up feeling like doing my housework. My appetite is good. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills toned me up and I feel like myself again."

Splendid Picture Offerings at The Rialto

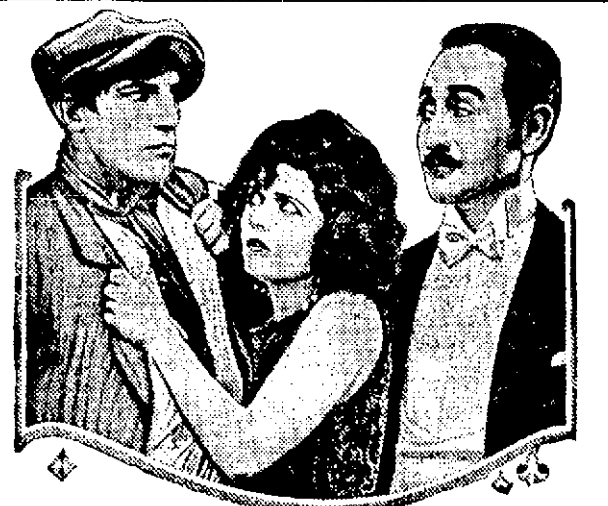

A SCENE FROM "ALL THE BROTHERS WERE VALIANT"

A splendid automobile story of remarkable fidelity, a bitter battle love and thrills is Agnes Ayres' and Richard Dix's Paramount Picture, "Racing Hearts" which will be shown at the Rialto Sunday only. Miss Ayres is seen as the pretty young daughter of an automobile manufacturer, while Richard Dix appears as Roddy Smith, an automobile engineer. Theodore Roberts is also in the cast. The other picture on the Sunday bill is "Flaming Passion" with Monte Blue and Irene Rich, adapted from Kathleen Norris' story, "Loretta Lombard." This fascinating story tells about Loretta Lombard, who after eight years of disappointed married life, gets the chance to start all over again. She is attracted to a younger man, but he is in the same predicament—bound to a woman he has wed out of a sense of duty. On this the drama hinges.

An excellent program has been secured for the first half of the week. A superb cast headed by Lon Chaney and Billie Dove will be seen in the film, "The Brothers Were Valiant," and "The Weakest Link" with Mae Marsh as the added attraction.

Those who have read Mr. Williams' powerful whaling story cannot but remember it as an unusually vivid and thrilling tale. It has all the elements which go to make a thoroughly entertaining photoplay, and with the careful direction of Irvin Willat, noted director of sea stories, it should be a picture of unusual merit. "All the Brothers Were Valiant" is a story of heroism. There is a thrilling whale hunt shown with

POLA NEGRI, CHARLES DE ROCHE AND ADOLPHE MENJOU IN "SHADOWS OF PARIS"

A special program has been arranged for Sunday only at the Merrimack Square theatre, patrons of the management house are asked to note this change in the theatre's schedule. The outstanding feature for Sunday only will be "The Plaything of an Emperor," a story of the most curious and gorgeous have their opportunity to enjoy a massive historical picture in this production.

The photoplay is said to differ from other costume pictures in that it has an appealing and human love story, running the gamut of ecstasy and despair, acted in a sympathetic and unaffected manner. The picture, introduced to us Napoleon when he was at the very height of his power and glory. He is no longer the dashing and young lieutenant of artillery, but the mature, seasoned and witty emperor. Nevertheless, when a courtesan who is little more than a girl in veils, snubs him at a ball, he loses his heart to a production worth going miles to see.

Other attractions for Sunday include Cecil B. de Mille's massive production, "Manservant and Maidservant," founded on J. M. Barrie's famous play, "The Admirable Crichton," with a cast which includes such favorites as Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, Theodore Roberts, John Daniels, Raymond Hatton and Lila Lee, a comedy and the International News.

For six days beginning Monday, Manager Peterson has arranged a program that will go down in the annals of Lowell photoplay theatres as one of the most elaborate ever presented the public. For a surer there will be "Shadows of Paris" featuring Pola Negri and a big surrounding cast in scenes of intense dramatic action and whirlwind apache dancing.

Then for a second feature there will be "The Story of William Tell," a story of a Swiss boy's heroism, and a third feature, "The Story of William Tell," a story of a Swiss boy's heroism, and a third feature, "The Story of William Tell," a story of a Swiss boy's heroism.

As a special added attraction for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the Merrimack Square will present "Home, Sweet Home," shown through the permission of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which the Merrimack Square is a member. In it is recorded the last public appearance in Washington of President Harding when he dedicated the "Home, Sweet Home" home. Many other notables also appear.

This, however, is only a part of the interest the film holds. In the brief space of 15 minutes it unfolds a story

Sunday and Week-Day Attractions at Keith's

HARRY O'NEIL OF LANG & O'NEIL AT R. F. KEITH'S

The Sunday bill at the R. F. Keith theatre will be an all-around show of headline quality, with Wilfred Clarke and his company of players in one of the very best of light comedies, "Crafts & Hales" will also appear, giving their inevitable bits of drool and sence, and Home & Hunt, time and tried vaudeville singers, will also be retained, Luez Hanly and her "Photograms," are scheduled for the dance. The new acts are Crawford & Goodwin, in songs and comedy, and Burlin & Mooney, with a variety of interesting things.

For the coming week the Dixie Four will appear in their winning vaudeville singing quartet turn. This is a truly snappy quartet act, and one which has plenty of good comedy shot through it. The singing and the dancing of the four men will make instant appeal to audiences. It is a quartet which does about everything and spins along in speedy fashion.

The Australian Mendocinos will present "The Globe of Fate," which is one of the great novelties of the present time. It is a steel sphere on which the Mendocinos ride on motorcycles at high speed. Some idea of the speed at which the cyclists go may be obtained from the fact that, frequently they

GOVERNMENT PAYS HER TWO THEATRE TICKETS AT TRAINING EXPENSES

BY MARIAN HALE,
N.E.A. Service Writer
NEW YORK, March 21.—Romania needs leaders—women leaders, and the government is willing to train them at its own expense.

So says Christine Galtz, a dark-eyed daughter of Romania, who has finished her studies in Paris and come to America for post-graduate work.

CHRISTINE GALTZ

"Since the war, the government has had from 500 to 1500 students in Paris, yearly, netting degrees in law, medicine, music and the other professions," she explained to me.

"Many women have successfully passed the selective examinations held yearly, or have been recommended to the government by the University of Bucharest. The desire for education is universal."

"We are free to choose our own studies and lead our own lives. There is no infringement of personal liberty imposed by the government on its students, but most of us feel a strong sense of obligation and realize the debt we owe to our country."

She finds quite a different attitude toward education on the part of the American girl from that of her Romanian sister.

"Every girl in America, whatever her class," she said, "seems to have an idea of serving her country. She is very practical about her studies, and does not plan her education with an eye to its future use. She does not regard making money as beneath her, but as a proof of her efficiency. The Romanian girl is much less

TWO THEATRE TICKETS AT PRICE OF ONE

Under an arrangement made with Langdon R. Barbydt, who is presenting the stock players at the Academy theatre, The Sun offers to its readers the opportunity of securing two seats for Monday night's performance at the price of one. The procedure is simple. In tonight's editions of The Sun is printed a coupon. If you clip this coupon and bring it to the box office window at the Academy of Music and pay for one seat, the seat adjoining will be given you free of charge on presentation of coupon.

The Sun is co-operating in this excellent with Mr. Barbydt in his "get acquainted" idea. The coupons will be redeemed any time today or Monday for seats under the plan described above and the reader is under no obligation. Such an opportunity is a rare offering to Lowell theatregoers and it is predicted will be seized with avidity. All that you pay is the price of one ticket plus the tax for two.

farseeing. She wants to learn as us to enrich her life, but has no specific aim in mind. But conditions have changed so rapidly since the war and economic conditions are shifting, so that they must become self-supporting, and they must get the viewpoint and slant on education and that the American girl has already learned.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Mrs. Dube Well and Strong

E. Hartford, Conn. — "After a severe sickness I was so weak that I could not do my housework, so my mother told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

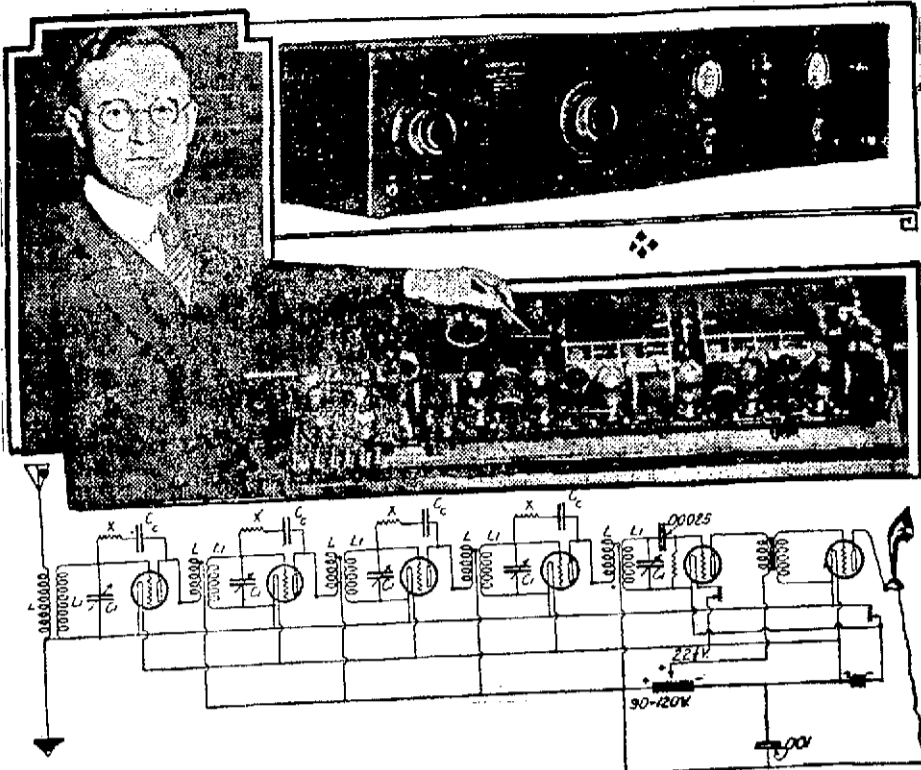

The first bottle helped me so much that I took six more bottles and felt fine. I have just given birth to a nice baby girl and am feeling strong and well. So different from the way I felt before. I am taking the Vegetable Compound right along while nursing. The baby seems to be in good health, and my friends say they see a big change for the better in me."—Mrs. EUGENE DUBE, 50 Woodbridge St., E. Hartford, Connecticut.

Only Two Controls on Complicated
and Highly Selective Nine-Tube Set

PHOTOS SHOWING PANEL ARRANGEMENT AND CONSTRUCTION OF C. L. FARRAND'S "SUPER-PHODONE" RECEIVER. BELOW, WIRE-UP OF SIX-TUBE PHODONE RECEIVER.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
NEA Service Radio Editor

Unlike the super-heterodyne in principle, yet equal to it in simplicity of control and in wide range, degree and selectivity of reception.

A nine-tube receiver, using six stages of tuned radio frequency and two of audio-frequency, with only two controls—

No howling, no re-radiation, not fine selectivity, successfully operated on a 22-foot aerial!

These are the characteristics of the new "Super-Phodone" receiver designed by C. L. Farrand, New York consulting radio engineer, who exhibited his set recently before the Radio club of America at Columbia university.

Farrand, in his receiver, has overcome the difficulties met in construction of even two or three-stage tuned radio-frequency circuits. The controls are so intuitive and the balance so delicate that it is almost impossible to tune them.

On the Dial

This intricacy has been avoided in the super-phodone by the simple method of creating a bank of variable condensers all tuned at the same time by a single dial working the condensers by means of worm gear arrangement. The condensers are electro-statically shielded from one another and are adjusted beforehand for greatest efficiency under the single control.

The only other control on the set is the dial for the antenna inductance.

Farrand's design is such that from three to ten stages of radio-frequency may be used.

Oscillation is avoided by use of a new principle, by which any number of radio-frequency stages may be employed. Between the grid and the

plate of each tube Farrand has connected a non-inductive, low capacity resistance, which changes the phase of the coupling current flowing between the grid and plate circuits, nullifies most of the feedback caused by the capacity of the circuit and the tube, and absorbs what remains as it is fed back.

Resistances

Says Farrand: "The value of resistance necessary to nullify the grid to plate coupling is dependent upon the design of the tube, as well as the circuit, and is not critical. For average battery resistance now in commercial production a resistance ranging between 25,000 and 35,000 ohms gives satisfactory performance for multistage operation. One hundred thousand ohms is a satisfactory value for the present day cell tubes and may vary between 50,000 and 120,000 ohms."

Describing his hook-up further, Farrand goes on:

"A condenser is inserted in series with the resistance between grid and plate to prevent the plate battery from flowing through it to the filament. It is purely a blocking condenser and may range between 1 microfarad to .001 microfarad and is only needed to permit the amplifier tubes to be operated on common plate battery."

Transformers

"The transformer windings should preferably be tightly coupled. A suitable design consists of 150 turns of No. 25 B. & S. wire on a tube, two inches in diameter and 2 1/2 inches in length, comprising the secondary. The primary should be wound with about 25 turns of the same wire on a concentric cylindrical tube of about 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

"The primary is wound in opposite direction to the secondary. The end of the primary winding directly under the grid end of the secondary should be connected to the plate battery. The other terminals follow as usual.

The secondary tuning condenser should have a capacity of .00025 mfd."

Coupling these condensers together involves such hard work to adjust each correctly in relation to the others, that this is the most difficult part in hooking up the receiver.

Three-Stage Radio

Farrand gave a hook-up for three stages of radio, a detector and two stages of audio-frequency amplification and showed how regenerative amplification, equal in increased volume to two stages of audio, may be obtained. This is done by omitting the nullifying resistance of the third radio stage and controlling the feedback by means of a potentiometer on the grid of the same tube.

Equal results may be obtained by use of a variometer in the plate circuit of the detector tube. But if this is done the nullifying resistance on the third radio tube must remain.

"In the use of three stages of radio-frequency amplification without regeneration," Farrand says, "it is not necessary to take any particular precautions, except disposing the transformers at right angles, and using care to provide for short grid leads, and that the grid lead of one tube does not run close to the grid lead of another."

Farrand's receiver has been successfully operated on an aerial only 12 feet long.

Tested out recently, Farrand reports he was able to tune out, without regeneration, a 492-meter station in New York to receive the signals of a 505-meter station in Philadelphia.

He has made further improvements on the set, to improve its selectivity.

Detailed Description of House Plan Illustrated on Page 7

This house is a combination of New England Colonial and Prairie style. It is a full two-story type. It will require a lot 30 to 45 feet in width. It is planned to be built of frame construction upon masonry foundation, brick base course. Wide claspboards are used for the first story, smooth siding or shingles for second story and stucco roof.

There are four main rooms, dining alcove, bathroom and five closets. A full basement under the entire house contains laundry, heating room and fuel bins.

This home is practically a square plan in type and one that builds economically. The sun porch is a feature; also the inside fireplace. Here is economy, comfort, convenience at reasonable building cost.

Cubic contents of the house are approximately 18,000 feet, and the cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in but not including wall decorations, should range between $5500 and $6500. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

Editor's note: The plans for small homes are furnished by the regional bureau of the Architects' Small House Service bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects and has the endorsement of the department of commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and desirable small house plan service at moderate cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of the United States, Inc., 1115 Broadway, New York City. The United States government maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclosure stamped addressed envelope.

NEW VENIRE FOR McCRAY JURY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 22.—Possibility of court officials being forced to summon a new venire in order to empanel a jury for the trial here of Governor McCray on charges of embezzlement of state funds, loomed when at the opening of the sixth day of the trial today, only five jurors had been tentatively accepted while the original venire of two hundred men is nearly exhausted.

C. In the meantime a new motor will be installed in one of the planes and pontoons and new propellers fitted on all.

TO INVESTIGATE SHIPPING BOARD

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The house committee appointed to inquire into the affairs of the shipping board was prepared to lay before board officials an outline of a plan of information it desires in its work when it began public hearings today. Chairman O'Connor, Rear Admiral Benson, retired, and President Palmer of the Emergency fleet corporation, were the board officials summoned for today and the committee had arranged its requests for data under 20 different group headings involving contracts and all other phases of the board's operations.

IMPORTANT CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Again has the Norris resolution been passed by the United States senate by an almost unanimous vote, only seven voting in the negative against 63 in the affirmative. This resolution favors a constitutional amendment that would change the date for the inauguration of president to the third Monday in January and that for opening the first session of the new congress on the first Monday in January.

This would overcome the present antiquated arrangement by which senators and representatives elected to congress do not enter upon their active duties until the expiration of thirteen months after their election. The proposed change would give more prompt effect to the popular will and would prevent the evils arising from allowing a congress of "lame ducks" to remain in session for the greater part of a year after they had been defeated and discarded by the electorate.

It is very important, therefore, that this amendment shall pass and that it be advanced with all possible haste. The arrangement now in force was made during the infancy of the republic, when it was a very difficult matter to get to Washington from the more remote parts of the country. Now, however, with rapid transit available from all the states, that reason no longer exists. The main point, however, is that it is desirable as being in accord with the spirit of our democratic government to give effect to the will of the people as soon as possible after the election.

With such an amendment in operation there will be no short session so called as arranged under the present system, which meets in December, although it might be possible that the session of congress under the new plan would continue, following the election until the end of the year. There is a vast number of proposed amendments to the constitution now before congress, but none of such urgency as this, and it is hoped, therefore, it will not be side-tracked and held up as it was last year, without any reasonable excuse. It will require considerable time to have the amendment submitted and ratified so that any delay at this time may result in having the change postponed for from two to four years.

Another amendment that should meet favor in congress is that under which amendments could be ratified only by legislatures chosen after the amendments had been submitted. That would give the people some voice in every change made in the constitution at least by the vote of their legislatures duly chosen with full knowledge of the pending issue. Had this method been in force for the last twenty years, it is quite likely that some amendments now in the constitution would have been defeated.

ARMY LIFE UNATTRACTIVE

Some hint as to conditions which prevail in the regular army of the United States today was recently given by a group of officers at Governors Island, headed by Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard. Summarized, the statement said that army posts at present are rapidly deteriorating through the misappropriation of congressional appropriations. It was shown that men, with pay reduced from $30 to $21 monthly, in the case of privates, are declining to enlist, and, further, that the whole military establishment is suffering from false economy to such an extent as to be hampered in its efficiency.

Proof that enlistments in the United States army today are few and far between, has been shown in various New England recruiting districts all winter. The regular army does not appear to attract young men as it did just before the World war. Recruiting officers admit that faithfully, although they continue their diligent station duties and do the best they can, they fail to get the response that might be expected from a patriotic people, but for this they realize there is a reason and it is not the fault of the people.

The average man has learned what real war means and he does not see a patriotic emergency that would justify him in entering the service for the miserable pension offered by the government.

THE IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

The opposition to the Johnson bill, has finally convinced congress that such a measure would be detrimental to the country and likely to result in international complications. One of the strongest protests made against the measure is that which comes from the National Association of Manufacturers which practically favors the continuation of the present quota law with flexible provisions. The manufacturers hold that provisions to meet the economic conditions in specific cases, would best serve the general interest of the country at the present time. It holds that a penalty should be provided for illegally entering the United States and that no alien effecting unlawful entry should be permitted to take out first papers upon an equality with those lawfully admitted.

The spirit of this protest against the Johnson bill is included in the following statement: "Let us meet strangers with sympathetic understanding and just terms as we would hope to be met were we strangers in a strange land." If the immigration officials put this principle into practice, the influx of the various nationalities would be more ready to such citizenship after their arrival here and to banish all thoughts of returning to the lands of their nativity.

FREIGHT LOADING INCREASE

Freight shipments into and through Lowell railroad yards are steadily increasing, yard masters inform The Sun. The increase began several weeks ago and today is noticeably growing in proportions in a most favorable way. It is one of the most optimistic barometers of advancing trade and general business that we have today, as every railroad man and mercantile representative knows, full well. Express shipments are also increasing.

Recently, one large American Express corporation running a through freight train from New York city via Lowell to Portland, Me., daily, deposited on the platform at the Midway street station, 24 truckloads of merchandise destined for Lowell wholesale and retail merchants. The daily spectacle at the railroad station when this 16-car train arrives about 7 a. m. within sight of waiting train commuters, and unloads its wealth of goods ordered by Lowell industrial concerns, is most encouraging. It is a sign that points to returning prosperity as a certainty.

SEEN AND HEARD

Now for the first rubin.

To walk in the middle of the road with ear-muffs on is to invite disaster.

Don't forget that the driver of the automobile is not always responsible for the accident.

A Thought

Nothing is so great an instance of ill-manners as flattery.—Swift.

Impossible Demand

"But," objected Mr. Sparker, when the young man had made known his wish to marry Miss Sparker, "you have never shown that you are capable of supporting a wife." The young man seemed thoughtful, but was quick with his answer. "If, sir," he added, "you want her to marry a widower, I must confess that I can't qualify."

Terrible Prospect

Lightmeat was about to have the come put to his nose, preparatory to the removal of a possible pre-cancer. "Just a word, doc," he said, holding back the nurse's hand. "While I'm under the anesthetic, remove any other blemishes you see on my face." "I'll do that," said the doctor. "How could you get along without your face?"

Saying It With Flowers

"I used to think a florist had an uncertain business," remarked the gambler, as he stopped to poke some geraniums with his cane. "In fact, I supposed he was only called upon when he brought a funeral or a wedding." "We do much better than that," responded the friendly florist. "We also officiate throughout courtships, on birthdays, at commencement exercises, on holidays, at dinner parties and after family quarrels."

Was Glad to Hear It

There was a disconsolate-looking client sitting in the anteroom. The lawyer ushered another client from the sanctum. Upon him the attorney bestowed a slap on the back and a hearty, "No trouble to win your case, my dear sir. Everybody knows that possession is nine points of the law." At this the disconsolate one brightened visibly. And, as the lawyer greeted him he exclaimed: "I'm glad to hear you say that, counselor. Mine is a liquor case. I'm charged with possession."

An Occasional Attendant

The tickets for a certain Sunday school concert had been distributed to the scholars and the superintendent was surprised when a small boy inquired how it was he had not one. The superintendent looked at the boy and said: "You don't attend the school?" "Oh, but I do," replied the boy. "When was the last time you came?" asked the superintendent. "Last Tuesday," replied the boy. "Where have you been since?" "Please, sir, I—I—I've had a bad cold."

Mother's Holidays

Wherever there was a program and we children took a part. Or a picnic or a party, I know down in my heart. She was kind and we were invited, and she liked to see us go. And the compliments they gave us somehow set her eyes aglow. But she never said a word about it. It was she always would agree. At home again, "Oh my, but ain't I glad that's over now!"

She worked with so much patience to make us every one look right. And trained us for our duty, which she wouldn't let us slight. But 'twas just the same old Christmas which we thrilled with keen delight. Or the Fourth or on Thanksgiving, and with pride her face would light. For she liked to see us merry, every little lass and lad. But at night she'd sigh and whisper, "Well, it's over, ain't I glad?"

And I think perhaps in Heaven, when we're gathered after while. From the glories and the futures, we shall greet the dear, old smile. And while yet our early ventures leave us thrilling to the pitch. She will sigh in sweet contentment, "Ain't I glad that's over with?" —GAIL HOFFMAN in Farm Life.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Remarkably indeed it is when a man is found who successfully combines the attributes of music and mechanical technical skill—a musician on one hand and an inventive genius on the other—and successful at both. Such a combination is in the makeup of Mr. Joseph Hoffmann, world-famous pianist, who yesterday was in Lowell as a guest of Mr. John A. Stevens, specially invited in connection with an invention of his, the Hoffmann Air Spring, now about to appear in the American market. As a musician Mr. Hoffmann has few superiors. His technique is faultless, critics say, even ranking him in this regard above Bachman and Faurer. The mechanical and inventive side of his nature has been self-developed. He never attended a technical school yet is a wizard at mathematics and has mechanical skill far in excess of many graduate engineers. Again it may be said that such a combination in any man is rare. Few persons there are who can do two things well.

Something new in civic interest regarding high school athletics is involved in the complimentary dinner to be given high school boys on Wednesday evening of next week. The fact that prominent local organizations and well-known business and professional men are financially underwriting the dinner is a good point. Fully 500 persons will attend. It is expected and only good can come out of such a gathering. Recognition of what is being done at the school is merely needed, and the dinner should be a start in this direction.

There is considerable interest in the proposed testimonial to Mr. Albert Edmund Brown to be given by a number of local organizations and individuals just before he removes from Lowell to Kansas early this summer. An organization in making for the purpose of forming a general committee to have in charge the preparations for the testimonial will be held in Liberty hall next Tuesday evening, March 26, at 8 o'clock. It is hoped that the testimonial will be a public and effective demonstration and everyone interested in Mr. Brown and who appreciates the many good things he has accomplished for Lowell during his residence here is urged to co-operate. Organizations interested are asked to send three delegates to the Tuesday evening meeting.

Lowell has figured prominently in state legislative affairs this year and its representatives have been uncommonly active in behalf of measures which are aimed for the good of the city. There was the Brennan bill for making a survey of the Concord river in an effort to make it a cleaner stream; the bill of Mr. Achin looking toward annexation; the bill of Mr. Corbett providing for a pension sys-

QUARTER CENTURY AGO

From the old Sun: "Mr. Frederick Lovejoy of Andover, is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. C. Paul in this city. Mr. Lovejoy will be remembered as former city marshal of Lowell, having been at the head of the police department in 1880-81 and 1882. After leaving the police department he entered the express business and established the well known Lovejoy & Paul Express company with headquarters in the Boston & Maine station and later in the city. He was a teacher at the Moody school, a granddaughter of Mr. Lovejoy."

Very few citizens of Lowell at the present time, except the older residents, will remember Mr. Lovejoy but a great many do remember the Lovejoy & Paul Express company, which was prominent here before the old Boston & Maine station was abolished and before the motor vehicles came in to displace the horse in conducting the express business. The station theatre is now on the site of the old B. & M. station.

Famous Lowell Bicycleist

From the old Sun: "Plunger" Bill Martin, a well known Lowell bicycle rider 25 years ago, was in South Africa and astonished the natives by his feats on the wheel. He wrote a book, "The Doctor," which describes his experiences which were quite thrilling at the time. He gave exhibitions of speed in Cape Town and won many prizes, in competition with other famous riders.

Lowell Textile Council

Says the old Sun: "The Lowell Textile Council is to undertake the task of bringing all the textile operatives in the city into the union and for that purpose the new organization is adopting an active campaign. An appeal has been issued, the different mill owners notifying them of the plans adopted by the council." This was one of the first meetings held by the organization to gather in the mill-workers. The local council has been in existence ever since and has had many battles in the interest of the mill operatives.

Xaverian Brothers

The Xaverian Brothers left Lowell 25 years ago when the St. Patrick's Boys' school was burned down. They issued a farewell address to their pupils and friends on their departure. They were distributed by the order of their superior to different schools throughout New England. But the St. Patrick's Boys' school was repaired the following season and the brothers were called back.

Y.M.C.A. Challenged South Ends

Through Martin Conley, manager of the Y.M.C.A. baseball club, a challenge was issued to the South End team for a game on Patriots day for the championship of Lowell, held by the South Ends.

Nurses Graduated

At St. John's hospital Miss Margaret Dancer of Chelmsford and Miss Margaret Sullivan of New Bedford, graduated as trained nurses after having spent the usual course at the hospital under instruction and training.

Board of Trade Speakers

Hon. Hiram C. Knowlton, attorney-general, and Hon. Josiah Quincy, mayor of Boston, were the speakers at the annual banquet of the board of trade. Mr. Knowlton was at that time a candidate for the republican nomination for governor, but something happened that prevented him from reaching the goal of his ambition.

William North Lodge Anniversary

Says the old Sun: "The 25th anniversary of the North Lodge, F. & M. was observed by its members with a banquet and entertainment in Masonic temple last evening (March 22). Worshipful Master Charles Flemming extended a welcome to the visiting guests and other speakers were: Past Master Charles H. Holston and Right Worshipful Charles C. Hutchinson, of Ancient York Lodge. The William North Lodge was organized in March 1857, on the petition of Hiram Hall and others. It was named after William North, an esteemed and beloved citizen then known as 'Father' North. He had been Master of the Centurion Lodge and was prominent in other Masonic fraternities."

High School Annex

Plans were submitted to the school board for the high school annex and the estimated cost was $30,000. There was a general discussion of the proposed building, after which it was voted to visit the high school in conjunction with the mayor and Aldermen Mikella and Wilder, James P. Mikella, who was then alderman, and for a time acting mayor of Lowell, died three years ago last Thursday.

Gardner Defeated Moynihan

Says the old Sun: "Sporting men in Manchester to the number of about 500 witnessed two lively boxing bouts at the weekend park and one of which George Gardner, afterwards named Lowell boxer, defeated Andy Moynihan of Lawrence in a lively battle."

Went to Europe

Manager P. F. Sullivan of the Lowell and Suburban Street Railway, accompanied by P. A. Anderson of the Nashua Street Railway, left Lowell for a six weeks' trip to Europe. March 25 was his Sunday 25 years ago. This year it will be on April 15, OLD TIME!

For the Lowell city laborers; the new district court bills; the bill to pension Lowell charwomen and the Atkinson civil service bill are some of the city in the limelight and let the bills on Beacon Hill know that Lowell is endeavoring to keep up with the march of progress.

In connection with the controversy concerning more play area for the Moody grammar school in the Highlands, the appearance of the school today is more of the university type than elementary, in addition to the big brick building, including the eight room all-erected two or three years ago, there is a domestic science building of dwelling house construction, one two-room portable school and two one-room school houses. No other school in the city has such a group of buildings and yet crowded conditions still obtain, it is said.

Escaping from a fire, in zero weather, thinly clad, is almost as exciting as emerging unscathed from an oil tangle.

Your Health

REDUCING

Many people who are overworked, according to their story, are far more often the victims of worry over their physical condition.

Bodily poisons from bad teeth, infected tonsils and gastro-intestinal trouble may be to blame. Then the fat worry comes and one kind or another of heart trouble appears.

It is a simple matter to remedy this fat worry and improve your general health by the primary adoption of a sensible, satisfying diet with the amount of exercise which your special type may require.

If one can reduce the fat burden by getting rid of useless tissue, which loads up the carrying muscles with undue strain, interferes with normal respiration and drives the heart to greatly increased labor, the solution would be worth any effort.

You do not have to be on the diet in this weight business. It is no disadvantage to be 10 pounds over the average for your class and age, from 21 to 40. After this period a 10-pound deficiency in weight is more to your advantage than otherwise.

The non-fattening diet is a life process. Never attempt any sudden reduction in weight. Rapid attempts frequently cause great nervous depression with bad effects on both the heart and the nervous system.

Before giving you a full dietary program, I wish to say that if you will carefully follow its prescribed amount in the reduction of energy food and take the proper exercise, an power on earth can avert your reduction in weight.

The simple dietary program will follow this article.

FISH CAKES

CHERRY-RIPE

Cherry-ripe, ripe, ripe, I cry,
Full and fair ones; come and buy,
If so be you ask me where

Where my Julia's lips do smile,
There's the land, or cherry isle,
Whose plantations fully show
All the year where cherries grow.

Hal
Cochran's
DAILY
POEM

You have looked beneath the dresser, crouched upon your hands and knees; you have wallowed in the under-carpet dust. You have searched in distant corners; you don't deny it, if you please, but admit it, though you do it with disgust.

You have hollered at the Missus and you've blamed the baby, too. "I had it, just this morning," you have cried. In your search around the household everyone has joined with you, but the missing little metal isn't spied.

Webster failed to get in print words that you would like to shout. Nothing seems to quite express the way you feel. You're a blaze of red-hot fury as you wildly search about and to all the family make a vain appeal.

Not just once, but very often does this drama take the stage, and the act's a repetition every time and to think that you could dodge it and prevent a frantic race through the sensible investment of a dime.

Yes, the one who wrote the bromide, "button, button--" you'll allow, surely knew, from men, an awful risk he'd set. Where's the man who has not asked "Where is my collar-button now?" And it's all because he only keeps one set.

BRUSSELS, March 22.—King Albert has given his patronage to the Economy league, members of which bind themselves to buy no foreign merchandise, regardless of circumstances; to require storekeepers to supply only Belgian goods; to reduce personal expenses by restriction of personal consumption; to buy no foreign currency except when indispensable to their commerce or industry; and to recruit as many members of the league as possible by their example and precept.

THE TRUTH ABOUT OIL HEATING

So popular has oil heating become that there are now one hundred and fifty different types on the market.

In Massachusetts, over fifty have been approved.

ECONOMY—

There are more heat units in a gallon of 7c oil than in a gallon of 10c oil. Therefore, a heater using 7c oil will save at least 30% over the one using the 10c oil.

DURABILITY—

Select a heater that has no internal combustion chamber. They crack and must be renewed at frequent intervals.

CONVENIENCE—

Some heaters are limited to 275 gallon storage tanks. We recommend a large outside storage tank of at least 1000 gallon capacity.

Heretofore, we have declined to take the exclusive agency for any oil heater, leaving ourselves free to advocate what we think best and to keep in the path of progress.

WILLIAMS
HEATING

We now recommend

OILOMATIC

as the heat heater on the market today. It burns any kind of oil that will flow through 1-in. pipe. It has no parts to wear out and is equipped for either gas or electric ignition, ignition being intermittent, thereby decreasing cost of gas and electric bill. No parts to wear out and the manufacturer thoroughly guarantees the plant to be free from imperfections.

Listed as standard by the Underwriters Laboratories.

Supreme Court Takes Petition of Lowell Schoolmaster Under Consideration

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, March 21.—The case of William W. Dennett, principal of the Morey grammar school of Lowell, against Mayor John J. Donovan, et al., which is a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the Lowell school committee to reinstate Mr. Dennett as master of the Greenhedge evening grammar school was heard yesterday before Judge Pierce in the supreme judicial court at Suffolk county.

After hearing testimony and statements from opposing counsel the court took the matter under consideration. The witnesses were Mr. Dennett and Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools. Mr. Dennett was represented by Atty. John M. O'Donoghue and Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds represented the school committee.

The main point at issue and upon which the decision in the case will hinge is whether the rule of the school

Report New Hampshire Man Will Not Be a Candidate for Renomination

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 21.—According to a despatch from Washington to the Manchester Mirror, Senator George H. Moses will quit the senate at the expiration of his present term.

Senator Moses, the story says, contemplates going into business and is very sharp in his criticism of the inefficiency of the senate today and some of its members.

It is said in the article that the New Hampshire senator has been contemplating this action for some time and that unless unforeseen conditions arise he will not be a candidate for renomination. The senator has two more years to serve.

committees passed in 1923, requiring the election of evening school teachers from year to year, conflicts with the statute providing for tenure of office for teachers.

POWERFUL INFLUENCES TO STOP INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Soon after the senate oil committee adjourned today one of its members, Dill, democrat, Washington, started a debate on the senate floor in which he declared Attorney Littleton's appearance in the case demonstrated that powerful influences were at work to stop further investigation.

Senator Dill read into the record extracts from an article in the New York Times indicating that Will H. Hays will tell the oil committee that Harry P. Sinclair turned over 75,000 shares of Sinclair Oil stock to the republican national committee to wipe out the $1,600,000 deficit left after the 1920 election.

The Times article as read by Senator Dill said there was reason to believe Mr. Hays would tell the committee that Sinclair supplied the stock. In November, 1920, it said Hays appeared for funds to wipe out the republican campaign deficit. On Dec. 1, 1920, it continued, the Sinclair Oil stock was valued at $25 a share, which would make the 75,000 shares worth $1,875,000 at that time.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Clergymen should put before their congregations the necessity for increasing the salaries of ministers, said the Rev. Dr. William E. Beach, chairman of the ministerial relief committee in an address today before the New York east conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

BOSTON, Mar. 21.—Leave to withdraw was voted by the committee on ways and means and on state administration, sitting jointly today on a bill of Representative Francis X. Coyne for the abolition of the commission on administration and finance.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—The Oregon government will accord Adolf de la Huerta every opportunity to escape from Mexico, it was learned in official Mexican circles today. This decision is said to be based on sentimental reasons.

DIED TRYING TO SAVE BURNING HOUSE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 21.—Overexertion, in a vain attempt to save his home from fire, caused the death of Patrick J. Daugherty, about 50 years old of Bryden Heights, Warwick, early this forenoon. His body was found in a hen house later by neighbors and Medical Examiner Long pronounced death due to heart disease. The loss is set at $8000. A short circuit in wires connected to an electric pump in the cellar is believed to have caused the fire.

LARCENY OF $12,300 CHARGED

BOSTON, March 21.—Ralph G. Fay, formerly of the stock brokerage firm of Wilson & Fay, was arrested here today on an indictment charging him with the larceny of $12,300. The indictment alleged that James Hession of Boston advanced money to Fay for the purchase of stock, but received none in return.

OLCOTT MOTORS
HANDLING FORD

Introducing today a brand new Ford motor car agency—the third to
be established in the city of Lowell
and already conducting a flourishing
business in Ford products of the car,
truck and tractor types.

Spacious and handsome and commodious quarters in the Attraction
new Robbins mercantile block
of substantial size at 19, 23 and 25
Arch street directly across the Boston & Maine tracks opposite Middlesex street station, the sales and service station of the new Olcott Motor company presents a most impressive
picture.

That the Lowell territorial field
for the Ford motor car interests has not been neglected by other progressive concerns that have hitherto
controlled local sales and service,
goes without saying. The new concern that has leased commodious
quarters in the new Robbins building
on Arch street, is already assured of
good business in all the Ford lines,
including the wonderful Lincoln motor car. The two Olcott show-
rooms and the spacious service station are today alive with industry of
the motor car brand.

Alert, far-seeing men of experience
head the Olcott Motor company.
Harry S. Olcott, president and manager of the recently organized Lowell corporation, was for 11 years a member of the chief executive forces at
the main Ford corporation plant in Detroit. He is a business executive
with rare intuition and knows the
great possibilities of the central Massachusetts field, as yet undeveloped even in the vicinity of Lowell. Mr. Olcott, who announced on Wednesday the formal opening of the
new Ford car sales and service
agency on Arch street, is prepared to conduct one of the most active selling and distribution campaigns a
motor car representative ever attempted.

In the new Ford mart just opened
for public inspection all the new models of "The Universal Car" are
now exhibited in their improved body
shapes and improved mechanisms.
Touring cars cranked by the new sweeping lines; runabouts trim and sturdy in appearance; coupes entirely
new in design and construction;
four-door sedans of aristocratic appearance; truck chassis of the one-ton
label and Fordson tractors are now on
exhibition in the large bay-windowed
show rooms. Visitors are welcome at any time. The service station is fully equipped with all Ford accessories of every conceivable description. It is the aim of the Olcott Motor company
to meet all the demands of the people of Lowell owning or desiring to own some of the Ford company's products. Convenient payment terms
can be easily made to suit every purpose.

Competent salesmen and repairmen
are in charge of the accessories and service departments. Mr. Olcott is fortunate indeed in acquiring the services of Francis J. Sullivan, who is in charge of the Ford parts department. Mr. Letterman assists in the sales rooms.

Mr. Olcott is a sincere believer in returning prosperity to Ford car sales in all sections of the country. Indicator of better business and more employment on the way, he confidently believes Ford car sales and orders
have thus far taxed the Ford company's production plants, and they are always good barometers. He advises prospective Lowell and vicinity purchasers to file their orders
early if they expect to receive their
cars for use this spring.

CLEANING & DYEING COMPANY POPULAR

All roads lead to the progressive
Up-to-Date Cleaning and Dyeing company's commodious quarters at 81
Moody street, in the spring of the year.
Popularity is the winning motto at this
busy home of industry in the heart of Lowell, opposite city hall.

Mr. Samuel H. Plotkin, one of the best known members of the cleaning
and dyeing trade in New England, who
only four years ago took over a long-
established place of business at 81
Moody street, has enlarged the quarters to meet steadily increasing demands, and has also installed many
new equipments of the modern kind
to efficiently handle discriminating customer demands.

Today, the Plotkin home of the
cleaning and dyeing trade is flourishing with increasing demands made up-
on the various departments where the intricate work of renewal and repairing of garments for men, women and children patrons is industriously carried on.

Mr. Plotkin takes pride in the quality of his customer clientele. He has a host of regular patrons who depend exclusively upon the Up-to-Date company for all clothing pressing, dyeing
and repairing. Only expert workmen
are employed. Prices for all required
work are lower than the average qua-rations for similar work, this being a real feature of the Plotkin service at all times. Service is the Plotkin establishment motto also, with equal
prompt attention given to large and
small work assignments.

Customers come to the Moody street
cleaning establishment from many sections of Middlesex county. Parcel
post and express deliveries are made
daily to such towns as Billerica,
Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Braintree
and towns further outside the Lowell zone. Mr. Plotkin's policy is never to disappoint a customer. If work
does not meet expectations or come up
to qualifications, there is never any charge for work done. Courteous attention to all patrons who call or send orders by messenger, has always been
the rule, and all work performed at
the cleaning establishment is delivered according to specifications.

Many new departures have taken place at the Plotkin establishment
since the courteous manager, whose friendship in Lowell and vicinity has steadily increased, became proprietor.
The quarters are now enlarged sufficiently to take care of the increased
patronage, much new machinery now
being employed as required in the intelligent processes that go to make up an ideal, cleanly, wholesome establishment for the sanitary handling of personal wear and household cloth-
ings of innumerable description.
Manager Plotkin started in the business of cleaning and dyeing in the city of Boston, where he "learned his trade." He came to Lowell and in a short period conducted an establishment on Gorham street. His venture
to Moody street proved a marked success from the start and he is particularly proud of the fact that the Lowell
business men and women of the home and shop, who find the Plotkin place of business an excellent place to patronize regularly as the seasons
change from year to year.

BIKE COMING BACK
SAYS BACHELDER

The bicycle is coming back. It has
been coming back for some time past.
The wideawake representatives of the historic George H. Bachelder sporting goods concern in Postoffice square,
say so and they ought to know.

The Bachelder store is known all over
New England and points outside New England. For 32 years the sterling
name of George H. Bachelder has been familiar in the world of bicycle-dom.
The friendly originator of the sporting goods business in Lowell is no
more, but his name still lives over the
busy doors of the ever-busy Bachelder
sporting goods house in Postoffice
square—a Mecca for lovers of the great
outdoors first, last and all the time,
in all four seasons of the year.
Here, since the year 1916, Arthur H.
Bachelder has continued the business
so firmly established in the hearts of
all good sportsmen of the realm of the great open spaces hereabouts.
Here the Bachelder spirit, the Bachel-
der idea germinated 32 years ago, still thrives and prospers in vigorous fashion. Bunchy, every sportsman, man, woman and child, in Lowell and many Middlesex county towns, knows where
"Bachelder's" is.

"The Bicycle Shop" it is generally
termed in circles of favorite sport categories, and bicycle shop it certainly is,
with its 1924 array of new models in Hartford, Red Wings, Indians, Crowns
and other popular makes of the two-wheels. Not only is the display and
variety of popular makes of bicycles
much larger this season, but the values
are low. Demand is steadily increasing for the "bike." Men and women
are becoming attached to them again,
for they are money-savers, time-savers
and cost but little to buy, ride and
"park." Speaking of the growing popularity of the bicycle today, Bachelder
said:

"A few advantages of the bicycle today: A hot dinner at home, no garage
expense, can be parked anywhere, original cost only cost, gives exercise you
need with little exertion. Your carfare for the time saved by riding a bicycle will be a surprise to you if freed up; will pay for the wheel in a short time. In fact, if you imagine there are no bicycles ridden today, just count
them as they go by every day in the
year and you'll be surprised."

The popular Bachelder store of famous name carries the most complete
lines of up-to-date sporting goods in Lowell. There are children's velocipedes, scooters, express wagons of the
"Speed King" brand for youth; bicycle tires and all bicycle accessories, oils, compact, repairs kits, wheels, handle bars,
luggage carriers, etc.

All lines of sporting goods and accessories in demand have been greatly increased for this year's business. There
are baseballs, bats, footballs, basket-
balls, cages, masks, uniforms for all classes of sports and regalia of all kinds
necessary to meet the outdoor programs
of healthful activities.

"You'll find it at Bachelder's" has
been a slogan for years in Lowell
sporting goods circles, and the slogan
stands today as a truthful motto as any business firm could carry.

Nothing spectacular here at Bachel-
der's. Just a favorite mart of trade
for those who want quality goods in
the sporting lines represented, and
who can always depend upon the "Bachelder" label first, last and all the
time.

YD BATTERY
SERVICE HERE

Optimism reigns this spring at the popular Y-D Battery service station at
No. 37 Church street. Although not a Lowell mercantile establishment of ancient lineage, the youthfulness of this
enterprising and rapidly growing home
industry, backed by energetic men
with a manager of expert ability in all
branches of electrical starting, lighting
and ignition requirements, paves the way for success.

Manager L. E. Foster is the man "on the job" day and night at this modern battery service station. The business is devoted exclusively to this branch of the automobile industry, and the Foster-managed concern, established only since last September, 1923, has been meeting promptly increasing demand
for its great variety of automobile
power replacement necessities and friendly advice.

The service station on Church st. carries only the best specialties in starting,
lighting and ignition requirements—
standard goods always. Only high-quality materials are employed in all
work installed, or where readjust-
ments and repairs are necessary.

In the battery department, Manager
Foster handles only the famous Philadelphia Diamond Grid battery that won't buckle and won't warp is always
fully guaranteed.

Efficient service is also guaranteed in the battery and ignition departments. Calls come morning, noon
and night for Y-D experts to attend to automobile troubles in the starting, lighting and ignition parts. Free truck deliveries of all goods ordered by mail or telephone, are also made by the Y-D service men at any time of the day. This is one of the incomparable features of good service gladly furnished in emergencies and the Y-D
people never have yet failed to respond promptly to all calls from in or out of town.

Besides the service station described,
Manager Foster is agent for the distribution of Socony gasoline and Socony motor oils, also retailing greases
and bearings, Gardner piston rings, auto brushes and points, generators, starters. The Y-D is also district agent for the famous Arco oxygen tank.

Manager Foster's success comes from the excellent experience he has had in previous positions with other well known battery and service concerns.
He was for three years with the Constant Battery company on Church st.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

"HELLO!" HE NODDED PLEASANTLY. "CAN'T YOU COME IN A MINUTE?"

Down the beanstalk came the Twins, as it wasn't the truth he was telling from Beanstalk Land. Not like Jack had done the time the giant chased him, but slowly and carefully, reaching down with their toes to find safe places to put their feet.

Suddenly one of the big beans opened and out came a little green man. "Hello!" he nodded pleasantly. "Can't you come in a minute?"

And then the Twins saw that the big green bean-pod was really a little house, windows, door and all.

"Do you live here?" asked Nancy. "We do, you know," said the green man. "We are going up. Were you here all the time?"

"Yes," said the little man. "But it was not intended that you should see me then. I'm the Beanstalk Fairy and I can make myself invisible whenever I wish. The Fairy Queen told me you were going to Beanstalk Land, and asked me to go with you to see that you were not in any danger."

"But where were you?" asked Nick. "Where did you keep yourself?"

"Come in and I'll tell you all about it," invited the green man.

So the Twins went into the queer little house and sat down.

"I was right beside you on all your adventures in Beanstalk Land," said the host. "When you fell out of the Dutch giant's pocket, it was I who guided you so that you fell safely onto Snap's back."

"And when Snap chased the rabbit, I caused you to fall on the sunbonnet of the giant farmer's wife. When you fell into the milk pail, I made her think you were flies and fished you out. I told the aunt to come along and carry you away, and when you came you were going to Beanstalk Land, and when you fell out of the giant's pocket, I caused you to drop into the giant woman's thimble, and then into the seven-league boots. I led you to the corn field and helped to discover the king's treasure, and rescued you from drowning in the drain when the king's cat left you there!"

"Oh, I'm sure we are ever and over and over so much obliged!" said Nancy. "We often wondered why nothing ever happened to us, but we thought it was our magic green shoes."

"They helped, too!" said the little man. "but one cannot be too safe in a country where everything is so big, and you are so little. Have you had a nice time?"

"Splendid!" said Nick. "Were you with us when the Hilderford people at the fair and pretended that the little was a lecher?"

"Yes," nodded the little man, "and

THREE-DAY WEEK AVERAGE IN EXCELLENT PROGRAM OF LOCAL MILLS NOWADAYS

Uncertainty Still in the Saddle—Woolen Mills Show Improvement While Cotton Manufacturers Mark Time—Financial Statements of Local Concerns

Continuing stagnant business, heavily curtailed employment conditions and uncertainty in market demand outlooks continue to be the rule in Lowell cotton industries.

No Lowell textile mill is operating all departments. Many hundreds of men and women employed in plants running on reduced three or four-day schedules, are not able to secure steady work more than two days at a time in several textile mills where production is irregular, small orders, the rule and steady employment very uncertain.

Large numbers of textile workers report at mill gates on Monday mornings, not knowing whether they will work two days or four days in the departments where they toil. Some of the weaver departments that were, in normal production times, the busiest places in the local textile world, are today closed tight.

Workers say there appears to be no preparation of any kind being made in several of the largest corporations for innovations and future business, aside from customary machine repair pursuits.

Local textile mills, with one exception, have made no extensive curtailments thus far, although payrolls have been substantially reduced during the past three months before of short-time running schedules called for by the mill owners, who have been unable, they claim, to operate on a fluctuating raw cotton and made goods market that holds no fair margin for production considering the low prices of goods produced.

The reduction of the weekly operating time at the Massachusetts mills this week, from four to three days, and the report that business in the line of goods produced by this widely known corporation has been greatly reduced through lack of orders in all wholesale markets, puts one more Lowell mill of sizable proportions on the list of "three-days."

"Three Days" is Rule
Local textiles now operating on what may be termed "a three-day basis," include the Massachusetts, Lawrence Manufacturing company and the Hamilton mills. The Merrimack, continues with four-day schedules, while the Appleton remains unchanged on similar curtailed time schedules.

The woolen mills of the city and nearby towns, are now increasing their business all along the line, strangely enough, perhaps. With the cotton industries showing no reawakening and market conditions entirely against any ambitious cotton cloth producer who would try to operate and play the markets, the remarkable increase in business reported by many New England woolen mills during the past thirty days, has caused a little wonderment in textile circles in general.

Local Woolen Improvement
Local woolen concerns, notably the Hay State and the Musketquid, have shown steady production records and receipts of wool materials unchecked.

Today, shipments of wool are arriving in Lowell and vicinity for mills constructing woolen goods by truck and car loads. The immense highway trucking vans are a common sight on the Boston-Lowell, Lowell and Lawrence highways. Many wool shipments are also passing through Lowell for New Hampshire points, but cotton shipments into Lowell are few and far between.

Figures compiled by freight agents in New Bedford, Lowell, Fall River, Lawrence and Manchester, for the month of February and up to March 15, show that there were less than 65,000 bales of cotton in all received in all of these centers put together for the period named.

It is doubtful if the cotton receipts in all New England totaled more than 80,000 bales during the month of February. And with the extensive curtailment of production in many New England textile mills today, comes the news that if they wanted to run full-weeks—all of them—there wouldn't be enough raw cotton to supply their needs, or at least keep them supplied very long under normal operating conditions.

This fact is due to the extreme shortage of American cotton, and the new supply is not due until about Sept. 1. Last-October's year's crop, since it cannot be said that Lowell's textile situation today is worse than many other New England mill centers. As a matter of fact, The Sun finds that Fall River is far worse off than any New England city not excepting Lowell. At Fall River, called by textile mill agents, "the worst spot in New England," only two textile establishments out of a total of 27, are on full time. Three mills of the 27 are closed tight and 13 are running three days a week.

Not Roor in South
Southern cotton mills are following closely in the steps of New England mills in curtailment, although not so heavily. Southern mill agents are today somewhat non-plussed by present market conditions, finding many of their previous excellent outlets for the made goods entirely cut off temporarily, owing to slow demands on the part of wholesalers who are unable to promptly move stagnant stocks.

Good Judges estimate that New England cotton mills are supplied with raw material, at present rate of consumption, into June.

Indicating retrenchment in some of the southern textile mill areas, a representative of the Massachusetts Cotton Mills at Lindsie, Georgia, has just been quoted in the New York Daily News plant as saying that the southern branch of the Lowell corporation, which has 100,000 spindles, has "slightly curtailed production for the present." Mr. McLaurin, a textile writer, also quotes an official of the Massachusetts in the southern field as saying: "It is hard to know just what to look for, but we really believe conditions are bettering and that normal production is bound to come back." The Lindsie mill turns out denim and shirting.

NOT TO BE U. S. AMBASSADOR
MEXICO CITY, March 22.—Denial was made today of rumors that Alberto J. Panizza, minister, might be appointed ambassador to the United States. It is reported that Senator Paul Inoué will resume his post of minister to France after the present economic crisis is passed.

The complete program for the Parker lecture in the Memorial Auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock has just been announced. Miss Edith Margaret Small of Wollasley college will give an unusual interpretation of the Drummond poems about the Habitant of Old Quebec, and Fenwick Newell, the brilliant young tenor, will sing two groups of songs. Miss Margaret Withersing will be the accompanist for Mr. Newell.

Miss Small is a native of Montreal and during the summers of her girlhood became intimately acquainted with the "habitant" along the St. Lawrence. By her faultless interpretation of the dialect of the French-Canadian she makes the audience see the characters as she speaks.

The program follows:

VOTE ON NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL

WASHINGTON, March 22.—A vote on passage of the naval appropriation bill was in prospect before adjournment today in the house after an amendment had been adopted late yesterday requesting the president to initiate a move for an international conference to consider further limitation of competitive naval armament. The bill carries approximately $272,000,000. Among amendments added by the house is one which would prohibit the enlistment of boys under 21 years of age without the written consent of their parents, or guardians.

Joe Lynch Loses Bantamweight Title — Lowell Evens Up Polo Series

LOWELL DEFEATS PROVIDENCE AND TIES UP INTER-CITY SERIES

Fourth Game Goes to Lowell By Score of 7 to 5 — Bob Hart Star Scorer in Hard Fought Battle — Teams Play in Providence Tonight

Lowell tied up the inter-city polo series by showing the way to the Providence team in the fourth game last night in a well played game. The score was Lowell 7, Providence 5. The series now stands 2 to 2, with the fifth game to be played in Providence tonight.

Lowell's victory last night came as the result of splendid team work, with Bob Hart and Wild Bill Dugan the principal purveyors in the combination endeavor. The strategy worked out by this pair is proving very effective. Dugan does the heavy work with Hart doing the shooting. In their respective roles both are experts. Five big goals were Hart's contribution to the score. The other two were the product of Dugan's hickory.

Fred Jean, as usual, stood out like a beacon light in the evening game. The big fellow was here, there and everywhere, breaking-up plays, leading his rushers and taking a shot at the cage whenever the occasion demanded. He was in 23 places of bullseyes. Steve Pierce was the same dancing, punning, juggling star and he came through with a couple of goals. Al Davis was a busy fellow, haunting the Lowell cage, but a solitaire was his lot last night.

The game was well contested and hard fought. The teams were on even terms at the beginning of the final period. In this session the Hart-Dugan combination came to the fore with a fine burst of speed that sent Lowell into the lead there to remain until the final blast of the big horn.

As the game got underway Dugan poked one in in 35 seconds. Jean soon got it back by driving one in from the center of the rink. Then for more than ten minutes the teams battled furiously to break the tie. Finally, in 10:20 Bob Hart broke the knot and the fans broke loose with a great cheer. Thus the period ended, 5 to 2, in Lowell's favor.

The count was soon deadlocked with Jean poking one in in 18 seconds. Again Hart came through to put Lowell in the lead with a registration from the side of the rink. Just before the period ended Al Davis sent one home for the third tie score of the game.

With the score 3 all as the final session opened up both forces went at it hammer and tongs. Pierce came in, giving the lead for the first time in the game. It was

Abe Goldstein World's Bantam Champ

JOE LYNCH IS DETHRONED

Title Holder Decisively Beaten in 15-Round Bout in Madison Square Garden

Challenger Was Aggressor in Every Round — Champ Battered All Over Ring

Lynch's Exhibition One of Poorest Ever Given By a Title Holder

NEW YORK, March 22.—Abe Goldstein, veteran producer of the East Side's fight school, is the new bantamweight champion of the world. He gained the title which he has been seeking for more than a year by decisively whipping and dethroning Joe Lynch, last night in a 15-round match at Madison Square Garden. Lynch, apparently but a shell of the fighter who won, lost and then regained the 115-pound crown, within a few years, was a beaten boxer from start to finish. His exhibition was one of the poorest any titleholder has given in many years and the bout proved a disappointment as a championship contest.

A withering, relentless left jab, to the chin, varied with a short hook to the ribs and a smashing right cross to the jaw that tutored the champion on several occasions, were the weapons of Goldstein. The challenger was the aggressor in every round. He dazed Lynch with a right to the chin in the second and in the closing rounds, battered the champion about the ring mercilessly.

The champion bled freely from the nose in the last few rounds but Goldstein was unmarked at the final bell. Goldstein's victory gave him undisputed claim to the title which he held temporarily and by award of the state athletic commission after he outpointed Joe Burman of Chicago, last October, in a bout in which he substituted for Lynch, who withdrew at the eleventh hour because of an injury. Lynch first won the bantamweight title from Pete Herman, who regained it only to lose the championship to Johnny Buff, Lynch once more ascended the throne, when he knocked out Buff in 1922.

Goldstein's first defense of his new laurels was in a match against Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind. The Queensboro Athletic club, of Long Island City, is seeking the bout.

GIANTS AND BRAVES MEET IN EXHIBITION GAME TODAY

Brooklyn, Will Line Up Against Cleveland—Yankees Play Fourth Game of Series With New Orleans—White Sox Beat Giants Yesterday in 10 Innings

NEW YORK, March 22.—The three metropolitan big league baseball clubs played exhibition games today. The Giants met the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, Brooklyn club with Cleveland at Cleveland, and the Yankees play their fourth game of the series with New Orleans.

The White Sox beat McGraw's squad, 4-1, in Winter Haven yesterday in 10 innings. The evening contest was a battle between two teams who have played this year. The Giants won the other. In a display of the American Association, McGraw's team was defeated by the White Sox, 4-1, in 10 innings. McGraw's team was defeated by the White Sox, 4-1, in 10 innings.

Reports from the Yankee camp at New Orleans, disclosed that Walter Schang, veteran catcher, would be unable to practice for more than a week because of a broken rib. It was reported that Sprague, who Schang was hit by a batted ball last night, the extent of his injury was not known until he was X-rayed yesterday. McGraw and Howard Baldwin continue their training camp.

Dean has pitched 12 innings in practice games at Sarasota, without allowing more than one run. Dean has been equally consistent if not so brilliant. Baldwin was hit for a home run by Rogers Hornsby this week, but McGraw blamed that on his catcher and voiced confidence in the youth's ability.

Chicago, March 22.—Arnold Stutz, Chicago National League outfielder, was not yet until the season opens. Surgeons yesterday found a clipped bone in his ankle and wrenched muscles of the leg, received in a practice game at the Catalina Island, Cal. camp last Monday. The Cubs yesterday won an exhibition game with the Vernon Tigers, 4 to 2. The Chicago American League club, at Winter Haven, Fla., won a 10-inning game with the New York Giants, 5 to 4.

Cardinals Play Senators. WASHINGTON, March 22.—The St. Louis Cardinals invaded the Washington Americans training camp at Tampa today with hopes of beating the Senators. The Cardinals, who yesterday registered their third consecutive spring training victory when they defeated the Milwaukee club of the American association, 4 to 2.

Manager Harnett announced last night that Walter Johnson, Washington's premier pitcher and Dean of the many amateurs who played on his 18th season with the local team in today's game.

Seven junior members of the Boston Americans delegation, James Donahue, Ray O'Rourke, Ed Hudgerson, Dale Adams, Tom Jenkins, Hall Rosenbach and Charles Donkoff, are to be sent back to Boston before the barnstorming tour to assist in the training of the team. They will travel with the regulars prior to another year of scouting with the minors.

Athletes Beat College Team. PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—After a wild ride in a motor car, the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday defeated the college team of the University of Pennsylvania, 10 to 2, in a game played at the University of Pennsylvania.

Star Pupil Breaks Coach's Record. After a scratch start from Missouri, Simpson, because of his athletic practice, was made track coach at that school. His showing as a coach has been in keeping with his athletic performances.

While Simpson has been very successful in developing stars in all events of the track and field it is only natural that his greatest success should be with the hurdlers.

The possessor of perfect form in taking the hurdles, fleet of foot, Simpson was a victor in every race he took part. Many star athletes fall as coaches. Simpson appears the exception. In Keckle one sees a second edition of Simpson.

Recently in an indoor meet between Missouri and Kansas City, Keckle gave some idea of what may be expected of him before he departs from Missouri.

In covering the 30-yard high hurdle dash in 6 seconds flat he broke all indoor records for that event.

It is a rather interesting coincidence that the previous record of 6.5 seconds had been held for several years by Bob Simpson, Missouri coach.

Keckle's performance at the University of Missouri, to be a greater hurdle than that of Simpson, track coach at that institution.

Simpson has been a star at the Missouri school since he was a freshman in college circles. His establishment of the record is a mark of the next two years.

Cardinals Play Senators. WASHINGTON, March 22.—The St. Louis Cardinals invaded the Washington Americans training camp at Tampa today with hopes of beating the Senators. The Cardinals, who yesterday registered their third consecutive spring training victory when they defeated the Milwaukee club of the American association, 4 to 2.

Manager Harnett announced last night that Walter Johnson, Washington's premier pitcher and Dean of the many amateurs who played on his 18th season with the local team in today's game.

Seven junior members of the Boston Americans delegation, James Donahue, Ray O'Rourke, Ed Hudgerson, Dale Adams, Tom Jenkins, Hall Rosenbach and Charles Donkoff, are to be sent back to Boston before the barnstorming tour to assist in the training of the team. They will travel with the regulars prior to another year of scouting with the minors.

Athletes Beat College Team. PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—After a wild ride in a motor car, the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday defeated the college team of the University of Pennsylvania, 10 to 2, in a game played at the University of Pennsylvania.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Another busy week faces local sport followers, with basketball, polo and boxing on the card.

The fifth game of the C. M. I. Cadets-Bulldozers basketball series comes on Monday night. With the count standing three to one in favor of the Cadets, victory in the evening battle will give the competition to an end. This is the objective of the Cadets.

The Bulldogs, however, who attained their reputation in athletics by fighting hardest when the odds are against them, will enter the cage determined to halt their rivals and thereby prolong the series. They have been practicing all week in preparation for a desperate stand.

With Lowell poloists playing in Providence tonight next week's polo program depends on the outcome of this battle.

With each team having two games to its credit the fight is far from decided. Should Lowell win at Providence tonight another victory here on next Tuesday night would give Lowell the honors. Should Providence win tonight Lowell would be forced to take the next two games to land the series with a game on Tuesday night will be necessary to decide a winner regardless of tonight's outcome. Should a seventh game be necessary it will come on Friday night.

Wednesday night will find St. Anne's and Highland again in the second battle for supremacy in the second series for the city amateur basketball championship. Their opening game was a thriller, one of the fastest and most exciting games seen here this season, and indications point to a repetition of the close play in the coming clash.

Coach McFarland's boys are out to make it two in a row and the title coach Sawyer and his charges, however, while disappointed are far from discouraged by the initial defeat and every member of the outfit is still confident of not only winning the next game but the series.

Devotees of boxing will have their chance on Thursday evening when Willie Gradwell, of Somerville, who defeated Tommy Leahy of Worcester here Tuesday night will meet Phineas Boyle of Lowell in the main event of the evening. This bout is causing considerable speculation. In fact the possibilities of such a match were discussed during the progress of the Gradwell-Leahy bout, because of the announcement that Boyle would meet the winner. Gradwell is a crafty, clever veteran, who has met all the good boys of his weight in the game. He has been in there against three champions and in all ways gave a good account of himself. Boyle has been training for several weeks and will continue light work until the day before the bout. He is confident of continuing his winning stride.

Several other basketball games are on including the fourth of a series between St. Peter's Cadets and the Sacred Hearts. This series is being the best the city has ever seen. The teams are enjoying the games.

John Souza has plans under way to revive amateur boxing here. Bouts are to be presented in Associate Hall under the auspices of the Lisbon Club, with Al Mall, the welterweight star, as the feature performer.

A bout that is creating considerable interest hereabouts is set for Monday night in Lynn when Johnny Avila of Lowell is down to meet Nate Selgan, former N. E. welterweight champion, in the feature event of the Casino A. C. show. This bout was originally scheduled for two weeks ago, but Selgan asked for a postponement because of an injury while training. He has entirely recovered and announces that he is in splendid condition and confident of forging ahead in the "come back" campaign. The additional two weeks has helped Avila, as he has been training diligently all the while in Boston, under the direction of Charles Mealey. Avila has several club fights in prospect and it is expected that he will be in great demand.

WARD DEFEATS EDDIE SHEVLIN. BOSTON, March 22.—George Ward is the master of Eddie Shevlin. That much was proven to the fans of Boston last night when the Elizabeth, N. J. fighter turned back the Roxbury brawler for the third time in as many fights. They fought it out in the feature 10-round bout, of the Commercial A. C. show in Mechanic's building.

Ward, while he did not show quite the form he has in his previous contests with the Dartmouth "professor," was never dangerously threatened. In the opening round he took the offensive, piling up a lead with stiff left jabs to Shevlin's face. He continued to use his jab with telling effect throughout and added to his advantage.

McEWAN TO COACH WEST POINT ELEVEN. NEW YORK, March 22.—Captain John J. McEwan probably will return to West Point as head coach of the 1924 football eleven, despite reports to the contrary. It was learned yesterday that the adjutant general's department to Washington sanctioned a temporary detail which would allow him to return to the academy in July to take up his duties. He is now stationed in Cuba.

It had been believed that McEwan would be unable to act as head coach this year because he was due for foreign service. His 1923 eleven was defeated by Notre Dame and Yale and tied by the Navy but won impressive victories in other games.

BASKETBALL

St. Joseph's, Milford defeated the All-Stars Thursday night in St. Joe's gym. The score was 24 to 13. The teams and summary:

The Y.M.C.A. Eagles will play the All-Stars in a city league game in Y.M.C.A. this evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The C.Y.M.C. Seconds had little difficulty in defeating the Phi Beta Phi team in gymnasium last night. The winners are now looking for a game or series of games with the Sacred Hearts or St. Peter's Cadets.

In the Sacred Heart school hall last night, the Sacred Hearts won from the St. Peter's Cadets by a count of 26 to 13. The game was a very close one, and the Sacred Hearts were the winners.

St. Joseph's varsity team went to Nashua last night and defeated Nashua Junior high school by a score of 21 to 23.

TILTON TO TEAM WITH WEINER. BROOKLINE, March 22.—William T. Tilton, one of the first two boys to play in the city league, is to be featured in the national doubles tennis championship to be contested here in August with his young protegee, Alexander Weiner, who is a member of the Brookline tennis club.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIPS. PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 22.—The class of 1924 scholarship at Brown University was today awarded to Charles D. Dixon of Rutherford, N. J., back on the Brown eleven last fall and the hero of the Brown-Barnum football game.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT THE AUDITORIUM

The program of moving pictures to be exhibited at Memorial Auditorium next Monday evening, when the local sportsmen are to entertain their ladies and friends from far and wide, include the following subjects: "Riding Bob Whites a la Virginia," "A Virginia Fox Hunt" and "A Virginia County Fair."

The lecture in connection with these pictures will be delivered by Dr. Noel J. Allen, noted Virginian and typical "Southern gentleman" who is a most interesting public speaker and has a fund of humor, common sense and the ability to delight listeners attending one of his novel illustrated lectures.

Dr. Allen is highly recommended as a lecturer on local life. He has the approval of the Agassiz association and the College of William and Mary. The picture, "Riding Bob Whites a la Virginia," is one that captivated the members of the National game conference in New York City last December.

YALE AND CORNELL IN TRACK MEET

ITHACA, N. Y., March 22.—Yale and Cornell met tonight in the first indoor track meet in history between athletes of the two institutions. This was the first time since the late 19th century that the two schools have participated in a dual indoor event.

The Blue is represented by a squad of 35 men. The events, to be held in the big hall, include a 75 yard dash, 100 yard high hurdle, one and two mile runs, running high and broad jumps, 16 pound shot put, 35 pound weight throw, pole vault, mile and two mile relay, and a mile and two mile relay.

Under the auspices of the Lisbon Social and Athletic club, an amateur boxing tournament will be staged in Associate hall on the night of Monday, March 23. The event will be a competition in which the local team will be allowed to take 112, 115, 126, 135 and 147 pounds. These five classes will be sufficient to take the place of the many amateurs who wish to participate in the tournament. Several A.A.U. officials have promised to be in attendance.

Boxing bouts have always been a source of great sport for the fans in this city. All entries should file their application with John Souan of the Lisbon S. and A. club, Lowell, Mass.

TWO LOWELL BOYS IN BOSTON MARATHON. Two Lowell boys, Arthur Flanders and Thomas McAndrews, are entering the classic Boston marathon scheduled for April 19. Flanders will attempt the 25-mile stretch between Ashland and Boston under the colors of the Boston Athletic association, while McAndrews will run unattached.

In the same race a year ago, Flanders finished with a fast 4:10. McAndrews has never been entered before. He is over 30 years of age.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 21

Old faithful Flip in the meantime had broken loose from the rope that held him in the hermit's tent. With a great leap the dog pounced down right in front of his master. This woke Jack up and you can imagine how surprised he was. "Go after them, Flip!"

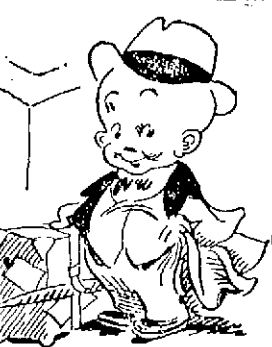

And there probably would have been a real fight between the bear, fox, porcupine and Flip if the old hermit hadn't grabbed Flip and held him. "These animals won't hurt you," laughed the hermit. "They are pets of mine. Call your dog and I'll send them all away." So Jack told Flip to lie down.

When the faithful dog realized that his master was in no danger he quieted down. Then the hermit explained that he had made friends with all the animals in the woods. "Just be kind to them and they will never bother you," he said. Then he sent the three animals back to the dense woods. (Continued)

NEW BRIDGE MOVEMENT AND EVERYBODY LAUGHED

Centralville Social Club Endorses Movement for Beaver Brook Bridge

A movement for the erection by the city of a new bridge across Beaver brook to connect Pawtucketville with West Centralville has been started by the members of the Pawtucketville Social club and at a meeting of the Centralville Social club held last evening a committee was appointed to meet with representatives of the Pawtucketville organization to devise ways and means to carry the project to a successful end.

The movement for a new bridge was started at the Pawtucketville Social club a week or so ago at which time the following committee was appointed by President J. Alphonse Barber: Timothy Roy, Joseph P. Montminy, Alexander Connellman John B. Boudreau, Alexandre Mailloux and Avila Sawyer.

This committee called on the members of the Centralville Social club last evening and after a lengthy conference during which the project was discussed thoroughly the following committee was appointed by the Centralville organization to help the other committee in its endeavors: Joseph Padeau, Eugene Boudreau, Hector Dupuis, Leo Bonneau, William Chamberland and Albert Bruchaud. The two committees will meet in the near future to draft a petition which will be circulated in both districts and later presented to the city fathers for action.

It is urged by the residents of both districts that a bridge should be erected across Beaver brook to connect both sections of the city. It will be remembered that several years ago the land company which developed what is now known as Rosemont terrace on the Pawtucketville side of the brook erected a temporary bridge across the stream, but the structure was condemned by the city a few years ago. The residents of both districts feel that a bridge across the brook would prove of great benefit to many and would also relieve traffic across the Allen street bridge.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER

Well Known Citizens and Organizations Give Necessary Financial Support

High School Athletes Will Have Biggest Time in History Next Week

Three well known Lowell organizations and 11 equally well known business and professional men are behind the complimentary dinner to be given members of high school athletic teams
at the school next Wednesday evening.
They have underwritten it financially and their interest already insures its complete success.

The organizations are the Lowell
chamber of commerce, the Lowell Rotary club, officers and directors of the Washington club. The individual sponsors are Frederick F. Meley, Henry H.
Harris, Elias J. McGuire, Gen. Gardner W. Pearson, Benjamin S. Pouzner, George M. Harrigan, Robert W. Thomson, Edward W. Trull, Daniel E. Mc-Quade and Gardner H. Macartney.

Such a manifestation of interest in school affairs by busy men and organizations is quite unusual for Lowell,
but happily seems to be a forerunner of better times ahead, with substantial citizens lining up in support of school athletics and all other good things which will tend to place the school upon a proper plane where due and adequate recognition may be accorded it.

LOWELL GUILD WILL HOLD BABY SHOW

A committee of volunteer workers from the Lowell Guild are laying plans for a baby show to be held on April 3 in connection with the Home
Beautiful exposition at the Auditorium. The committee is composed of Mrs. Herbert W. Horns, Mrs. Matthew P. Mahoney, Mrs. Theodorick Trull and Mrs. Edwin H. Hylan.
Mrs. Horns as chairman of the committee, conferred today with Agent Francis J. O'Hare of the board of health, to make arrangements to have the board of health nurses detailed for duty at the show. The method of entering babies in the contest will be announced later.

UNBETTERED This season are un-betted and others have very narrow bells of greenish ribbon, the shade
of the frock, that are almost invisible, yet define the waistline just enough to relieve the tube effect
which is not becoming to all women.

LINER OLYMPIC AND STEAMER COLLIDE

NEW YORK, March 22.—The White Star liner Olympic, outward bound for England, today collided with the steamer Fort St. George of the P&O line, near the mouth of the Hudson river.

The Fort St. George, which had about 45 feet of rail on her stern deck smashed, returned to her dock. The Olympic was sailing from Pier 52 at 19th street, with 150 passengers. The report of White Star line officials was that the Olympic was struck under the stern as she backed out into the river by the Fort St. George, which they said, was coming down stream, rapidly gaining speed, as she headed outward.

The Olympic slowly drifted down stream, while the Fort St. George, with 200 passengers, returned to her pier in the upper North river.

INCREASE IN LOCAL MORTALITY RATE

Another increase in the local mortality rate was figured this week when 38 deaths were reported to the board of health, against 34 last week and 21 for the week just previous. Of the 38 deaths this week, 10 were of children under the age of five years and eight were of infants of less than 1 year.

Infectious diseases reported were:
Diphtheria, three; scarlet fever, four;
measles, five; tuberculosis, eight.

A number of friends tendered Miss Yvonne Mitchell a pleasant surprise last evening when they gathered at the home of the Misses Lauretta and Vera Williamson and presented her numerous gifts in view of her coming marriage. A program of games, musical numbers and novelties was given. Ice-cream and refreshments were served and distributed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mann were agreeably surprised in their new home in Bellevue street, Thursday evening, when a group of friends presented them a beautiful picture. A fine musical program was carried out and a dainty luncheon was served by Miss Porter and Miss Leavitt.
Dancing was also enjoyed during the evening.

Mayor John J. Donovan went to Boston this forenoon to attend the luncheon of the Massachusetts Mayors' club at Young's hotel and become one of the party which later will be the guests of Mayor Curley on board the Lochlanan, now on dry dock in Charlestown. As a local guest Mayor
Donovan invited City Auditor Daniel
K. Martin to accompany him.

The reverse police have in their possession an Overland touring car, Mass. Reg. 220-182, believed to belong in Lowell. It was taken in Revere when the occupant failed to produce ownership papers.

CHARACTER PARTY BY MISS GREEN'S PUPILS

About 175 pupils of Miss Charlotte
M. Green participated in a grand character party in the Girls' city club
yesterday afternoon and last night.

The afternoon affair being reserved for the younger children and the evening
for the pupils of the high school class.

In the afternoon, more than 75 little girls, all fantastically gowned and tal-lented in the fancy dancing art, surprised a large audience of relatives

MISS CHARLOTTE M. GREEN

and friends with their interpretations of the character dances taught them
by Miss Green. There was an exquisite arrangement of old and modern dances combined with magical artistic revivification of serious rebar-bance and diligent application to the details of the various numbers.

The hall where the affair was held,
was attractively decorated with green and white balloons with streamers of various hues attached. Novel favors were distributed afternoon and evening and prize dances during the high school pupils' program. The hall presented a typical Mardi Gras appearance in the evening when noise-making devices and confetti were distributed to all present. Miss Green was ably assisted in the conduct of the affair by the mothers of the children.

ASKS FOR ACCOUNTING THEIR FINAL TRIBUTE

Attachments Totalling $100,- 000 Filed Against Agents
in Fiske Block Deal

Attachments in the total amount of $100,000 have been filed in the registry of deeds for Middlesex North against Edward J. Robbins and Herbert E. Ellis, both of Chelmsford, on behalf of Julia H. F. Hurd of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Attorney William D. Regan is counsel for the plaintiff and a bill in equity has been filed against the defendant parties alleging they failed to make proper accounting while acting for her as agent in the Fiske block at Central and Jackson streets.

This property which was damaged
by fire about two months ago has been operated by the firm of Martin Robbins & Son, real estate and insurance brokers. The bill of complaint sets forth in part that "for many years prior to June 9, 1920 the plaintiff was the owner of a one-half divided interest in the land, with the buildings thereon" and that "the plaintiff had many years before appointed the said defendants as agents
or trustees to manage said property,
to collect the rents, make necessary repairs, pay insurance, account for taxes and other charges and not generally in relation to said property as agents and trustees for the benefit of the plaintiff."

The complaint further sets forth
that the defendants, early in 1920,
while still acting as agents and trustees for the plaintiff, for the design and purpose of acquiring the property of the plaintiff at an inadequate price. And in furtherance of such purpose the defendants failed to disclose to the plaintiff the knowledge
they possessed of the value of said
property and of the values of surrounding properties, and failed and neglected to disclose to the plaintiff
the knowledge they possessed of the great increase in values of properties
in the business section of said Lowell."

The complaint further alleges that the defendants did not content themselves with the alleged neglect or failure to inform the plaintiff of the increase in the value of the property
in addition that they "falsely represented material facts."

On June 9, 1920 the plaintiff conveyed her holdings in the property to the defendants for $45,000. The plaintiff claims that her holdings were worth $75,000 at that time and she did not so realize until just prior to the commencement of the present action. Since acquiring the property
the defendants sold it at a price said
to have been considerably higher than that they paid.

The plaintiff asks that the defendants be ordered to account to and pay over the difference between what they acquired her interest in the property for and the fair value of the same. The attachments were made by Deputy Sheriff Martin Conway.

BRITISH FIRED UPON IN IRELAND

Soldiers in Free State Uniforms Attack British Soldiers—One Killed

Pres. Cosgrave Denounces "Cowardly Crime" in Message to Prime Minister

DUBLIN, March 22.—(By the Associated Press.) The celebrations from the morning within the Free State army are growing louder.

The latest development at Queens-town in which a detachment of British soldiers on leave was fired upon by men in Free State uniforms created a sensation in the capital and President Cosgrave immediately telegraphed a denunciation of the "cowardly crime" to the British prime minister.

One British soldier was killed and 27 were wounded, some so seriously that they are now expected to survive. The party of about 50 persons, including some of the men's wives and children had just landed at Queens-town from Spike Island, the British naval base, when a few motor cars drove up the pier and the four uniformed companies opened fire with a machine gun.

The car then sped away. Free State troops were sent in search of the assassins who are reported to have fled to the "Dublin" as they drove along. General Tully was one of the officers at the head of the Free State army and is still at large. General Towne of the Free State army, who is also at large, is reported to have been seen in the city.

WOMAN WHO TOOK POISON WILL RECOVER

A young woman who had swallowed a quantity of poisonous disinfectant was removed from an apartment in Merrimack street last night to the Lowell Corporation hospital. She was taken to the hospital by a young man whose identity last night was unknown, but who called at the police station today.

He said his name is Ralph Miller. He acknowledged taking the young woman to the hospital and that he had given her some medicine. The police, however, said that the name given by him was fictitious and that the woman is in reality the wife of a local professional man.

Miller said it was in the hope of avoiding embarrassing publicity that he gave the wrong name. The young woman is said to have been in poor health for some time and that she took the poison while temporarily dependent. The doctors say she will recover.

Officers Chosen to Lead High School Cadets in 1924 Regiment

Merrill Calkins, star backfield pun of last year's high school football squad and an all-around athlete, was chosen colonel of the high school regiment yesterday afternoon at the annual competitive drill for regimental officers, and Francis J. Green, one of the junior captains, was named lieutenant-colonel.

Calkins is one of the most popular boys in the high school and upon the announcement of his winning the highest honor in the regiment he was surrounded by a cheering group of students. After the excitement had died down slightly, the boys of his company, who evidently were quite sure of coming out on top in the competition, presented the new colonel with a pair of silver eagles, the insignia of colonel.

The new colonel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Calkins of 65 Pine street and a graduate of the Morse school. He is a senior and in addition to his sporting activities in the school served as one of the business managers of the High School Review.

In addition to the colonel and lieutenant-colonel, three majors were chosen from the ranks of captains as follows: Rommeus Soukharas, Frederick R. Crowley and Francis N. Pearsall.

To fill the vacancies caused by the promotion of the five captains to regimental officers, the following first lieutenants were promoted to captains: Amos W. Fleming, Ernest J. Spencer, Lloyd Carson, David A. Latham and James J. Corbett. The following second lieutenants were promoted to first lieutenants: Louis Yafa, Robert Judge, Whitman Pearson and Francis Blaisdell.

All of the above, with one exception, were officers in the companies of which the captains were promoted to regimental officers. In the non-commissioned ranks the promotions were carried out in the same way and the following first sergeants were named second lieutenants: Ernest Latham, Arthur Kolzen, Octave Jasmin and

Francis Mulheand. Lower ranking non-commissioned officers of these companies will be promoted one step in grade and one corporal from each of the winning companies will be chosen as a corporal.

The drill, which was similar to the elimination drill held prior to the annual field day of the regiment, was held in the high school annex building at 2 o'clock and continuing until shortly after 5 o'clock. The companies taking the drill in the following order: C, E, D, B, G, K, L, H, A and F.

The judges of the competition were Col. Charles A. Randall, Lt. Joseph McK. DeLoach and Lt. Joseph J. Kelley, all military instructors in the Boston public schools. The drill was in charge of Major Calkins. Kittredge, military instructor, who was assisted in supervising the drill and tabulating the record by Captain Richard Welch, regimental adjutant, and the battalion adjutant.

As the companies marched into and off the field, the high school band and drum corps, accompanied by the police, played march selections under the direction of Director John J. Giblin and Bandmaster Warner Carpenter. The band made a decided "hit" with the Boston judges and after one especially fine selection had been rendered they personally complimented Bandmaster Carpenter and Director Giblin.

CHARGES ATTORNEY GENERAL WITH SINCLAIR DEFIES "A DIRTY, COWARDLY TRICK"

Sen. Wheeler Denounces Daugherty for Blackmail Charges Against Miss Stinson—Scores Coolidge for Keeping Attorney General on Job

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(By the Associated Press.) Senator Wheeler, divorced wife of Jess Smith, "humper and friend" of Attorney General Daugherty, resumed the witness stand today before the Daugherty investigating committee and brought her letters to support her story of last week.

Before Miss Stinson began, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, in charge of the inquiry declared Mr. Daugherty had done "a dirty, cowardly trick" in making charges of blackmail against her in his recent statement. Miss Stinson's eyes poured tears during Senator Wheeler's statement.

Chairman Brookhart read last night's statement by Attorney General Daugherty and emphasized his comment upon the committee leaving unnoted the department's record of liquor prosecutions.

"I got the record from the Department last night after the statement was issued," Chairman Brookhart said.

"The Mr. Daugherty seen fit to explain what official position Jess W. Smith had in the department of justice," asked Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona.

"We ought to let that be explained by the attorney general, who has not come to the stand," Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, put in.

Former Senator Chamberlain, of counsel for Daugherty, complained that counsel had not been allowed to cross-examine witnesses, particularly Rommeus Stinson and Gaston H. Means.

Oil Committee Refuses to Testify After Committee Voted to Overrule His Counsel's Objections

Flat Denial of Story That Sinclair Gave Stocks to Wipe Out G. O. P. Deficit

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The story that Harry K. Sinclair handed over a large oil stock contribution to wipe out the republican campaign deficit of 1920 was denied by W. H. Hays today before the oil committee.

Taking the witness stand promptly after Sinclair had refused to testify, the former republican national chairman said his recollection was that Sinclair had made a contribution—perhaps as much as $75,000—to relieve the deficit, but that as stock transactions with Sinclair or anyone else had taken place while he was head of the national committee.

Hays disclosed that the law firm of Hays & Hays at Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is a member, represents the Sinclair interests in that state and that his brother, Hildre Hays, might have been the "Mr. Hays" referred to in the testimony of G. D. Washburn, as having received $50,000 in 1920 from Sinclair.

Hildre Hays, a member of the firm, the president of the same, had had a long conversation with the committee today.

The witness said he never heard of Sinclair's contribution until after the committee had voted to overrule his counsel's objections.

SUE Y. M. C. A. PHYSICAL DIRECTOR AS RESULT OF AUTO SMASH

Clarence E. Towne Named Defendant in $20,000 Civil Action Started By Chelmsford Man—Y. M. C. A. is Defendant in Similar Suit Due to Accident

A civil action, with the aid of damages set at $20,000, has been brought against Clarence E. Towne, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., by Charles A. Rundle of Chelmsford, as the result of an auto accident last July in which the plaintiff claims to have received severe and permanent injuries.

The action is brought through the office of Quin, Howard & Rogers. On July 3 last, Mr. Rundle sustained injuries when an auto said to have been owned by the Y. M. C. A., and driven by Clarence E. Towne, collided with the "Y" truck on its way to the summer camp at Nahant.

There is a suit against the association, also for $20,000, now on the court calendar. The second suit is brought against Mr. Towne as driver and he was served with the papers in the case yesterday.

STRIKE HALTS TRAMWAY SERVICE

LONDON, March 22.—(By the Associated Press) Tramway and omnibus service shut down today as a result of a strike of employees for higher wages and a sympathetic walkout by the omnibus men. The first sufferers were hundreds of night workers employed by newspapers, hotels and central markets who depend on the trams to reach their homes, as railroads here shut down soon after midnight for some hours. About 3500 omnibuses are tied up, depriving not only London itself but many rural and semi-rural areas of cheap transportation as many of the bus routes extend to places 20 or 30 miles outside the city.

DOCTOR IN DOVER COMMENDS "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Dover, New Hampshire.

"In 1906 I began to be troubled with Eczema. It started on my face and gradually spread. The second summer, I was so badly affected I had to lay off work. I would keep my hands tied up at night to prevent them from itching. I spent hundreds of dollars in seeking relief. I would go for several months without trouble and then the Eczema would break out again and I would be in for a sleep of suffering."

My hands, especially across the knuckles, would be so puffed and swollen I could not do any obstetrical work or operations. It was about three months ago I chanced to read an advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives" and I bought a box. I was relieved of Weeping Eczema by using this remedy and "Sootha Salva." I bought both and in about a week, noticed an improvement. I have now used two boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and one of "Sootha Salva" and am entirely free of Eczema.

"My flesh is clear and smooth and I am that gratified with the results that I cannot proclaim too loudly the merits of these remedies."

E. N. OLSEN, D.M.M.

"Fruit-a-tives" act so excellently on Eczema, because these wonderful tablets, made from fruit juices and tonics, first of all, rid the system of impurities, "fruit-a-tives" regulate the bowels, purifying the circulation and skin which is usually present in Eczema. When the bowels, liver, stomach and skin are all regular and in healthy condition, the blood is pure and there are no impurities to be deposited on the skin, causing Eczema. Pimples and other skin blemishes.

If you have any skin trouble, such as Eczema, try "Fruit-a-tives"—one box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. All dealers or sent by FRUIT-A-TIVES LIMITED, OGDENSHURTH, N. Y. Ottawa, Can. London, Eng. Christchurch, N. Z. Ad.

PASSION PLAYERS MADE DEEP IMPRESSION AT CAPITAL

Democratic Women Have Opened Headquarters in Washington and Are Quite Active in Promoting Party Organization—Republican Women Inactive

(Special to The Sun) WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.—The great iron gates that shut off the White House from the street were thrown wide open to admit the group of Passion Players from Oberammergau. The sidewalks were lined with hundreds of persons waiting to catch a glimpse of the famous players as they entered the grounds; camera men by the dozen snapped them as they filed up the granite steps and into the door of the White House offices; men and women craned their necks, newspaper men crowded round, and the scene was a typical one of the manner in which Washington greets its foreign visitors.

But this little band of players created something more than ordinary interest; it was like a bit of sacred history, a sort of mid-Lenten story brought to our midst, and which didn't lose its force, even though the players were dressed in "everyday" garments and chatted freely among themselves while waiting to be received by the president.

Anton Lang, the Christus of the Passion play, is tall, stockily built, with long dark brown hair, tinted with a ruddy hue, and so thick that it fairly bushes out at the sides; his beard is long, curly and of the same ruddy brown; his face is firm, calm, dignified and interesting. So imbued with the spirit of the Passion play has he become in the thirty years he has continuously played the part of Christus that when one compares his face with the face of Christ as painted by the great artists, a close resemblance is noted. Lang might have sat as model for the head of Christ by De Vinci, or those of Bellini, Murillo or Bartholomew. It is a face long to be remembered, even though seen today only in the midst of secular surroundings and political chatter which filled the White House office where the players, the newspaper men and officials and visitors stood side by side.

There were fourteen in the Lang party, including both men and women. The men were of varied type, and after Lang, the one attracting the most attention was Guido Mayre, who plays the part of Judas. Like Lang, he has ruddy brown hair and beard, but of a somewhat lighter shade, like Lang's eyes are serious when he is in repose, but light up with a twinkle, if chatting with friends, for Lang has "smiling eyes" when he greets friends, and at odd moments. The women of the party were quietly dressed in soft dark colors, close fitting hats and hair drawn smoothly back in beaming waves. All chatted among themselves in low tones, in a language the onlookers did not understand.

And what did the crowd of onlookers do? They stared openly, crowded as close as the guards would permit, craned their necks, tilted and eyed the visitors with a curiosity they did not take pains to conceal. Just as the crowds always do. But the foreign visitors were perfectly poised and apparently unconscious of their surroundings. They had come to see the president of the United States and he privately received by him. They are wrapped up in their art and the rest of us didn't count for a penny's worth.

As to the episode by which their visit was cut short, the facts have been already been reported in the press and resulted entirely from a desire on the part of the president to maintain diplomatic custom and a misunderstanding on the part of the visitors who undertook to deliver addresses.

Nick Longworth's Rejoinder After Stevenson of South Carolina called Nick Longworth to account for all stacks formerly owned by his wife and brother-in-law, Longworth retorted by suggesting a new rule be added to the House Manual under which the man for investigations could be shot through the capitol at breakfast speed. "Why should not the rules of the house be so changed that when there is a roll call the members need not answer present, but instead shout back either 'guilty' or 'not guilty'."

Democratic Women Active The democratic women of Washington are taking a big part in the pre-campaign program. Not only are of the day with them, but the Democratic Women's club headquarters is furnishing a meeting place that is tremendously appreciated both by Washington women and visitors to the city, whose political affiliations are not known.

The Fortnightly Bulletin issued by the women of the democratic nation, a series of articles on the making of a household through the Garner tax bill. Thus far the republican women have not attempted to reply, though unquestionably received by him. They are traitors.

In fact, the democratic women are more than ready to meet the republican women, who are gathering the clans for the next election. As to the episode by which their visit was cut short, the facts have been already been reported in the press and resulted entirely from a desire on the part of the president to maintain diplomatic custom and a misunderstanding on the part of the visitors who undertook to deliver addresses.

The World's Record

THE Metropolitan is mutually owned by its 21,000,000 policyholders. Its assets belong to the policyholders. They are accumulated to meet policy obligations and for no other purpose. Every policyholder is a capitalist—an investor—and his interest should be recognized by legislators and commissioners. The policyholders own over $313,000,000 in railroad securities; $606,000,000 in real estate mortgages; $80,000,000 in public utility bonds; $200,000,000 in Government obligations.

One person in every six in the United States and Canada is a holder of a Metropolitan policy—one of the safest forms of investment.

In 1923 the Metropolitan grew faster than any other life insurance company in the world; grew in income—in assets—and in the effectiveness of its campaign for better health for the whole country.

The Metropolitan sends trained nurses to the homes of thousands of Industrial (i. e. weekly premium) policyholders when they are sick. In 1923 these nurses made 2,482,919 visits.

While the average life span in the general population of the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 11 years ago, the life span of the Industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years in the same interval. This greater gain has resulted in large part from the Metropolitan's Health Service.

During 1923 the Metropolitan distributed 33,790,840 booklets and pamphlets dealing with health, general welfare and longer life. The total number of pieces distributed to date amounts to 305,990,507.

The Metropolitan arranges for free periodic health examinations for holders of Ordinary policies. Among those who availed themselves of this privilege, the death rate was found to be 28% lower than was expected for the group.

The Metropolitan cooperates with the companies to which it has issued group insurance for their employees—cooperates not only in giving insurance protection but also to promote better health, better working conditions, better living conditions and happier social conditions.

Life Insurance, which cares for the home and family, is born of a deep sense of responsibility. When millions of people join in a mutual sharing of this responsibility the result is the splendid picture shown in the 1923 report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Never before has the world seen such a Business Statement nor had such an opportunity to look into the hearts of men and women, and to find there—Kindness.

Harry Fike, President.

and Highly Selective Nine-Tube Set

PHOTOS SHOWING PANEL ARRANGEMENT AND CONSTRUCTION OF C. L. FARRAND'S "SUPER-PILODYNE" RECEIVER. BELOW, WIRING OF SIX-TUBE PILODYNE RECEIVER.

BY IRVING KLEIN

NBA Service Radio Editor

Unlike the super-heterodyne in principle, yet equal to it in simplicity of control and in wide range, design and selectivity of reception.

A nine-tube receiver, using six stages of tuned radio frequency and two of audio-frequency, with only two controls.

No howling, no re-radiation, yet fine selectivity.

Successfully operated on a 12-foot aerial.

These are the characteristics of the new "Super-Pilodyne" receiver designed by C. L. Farrand, New York consulting radio engineer, who exhibited his set recently before the Radio club of America at Columbia university.

Farrand in his receiver, has overcome the difficulties met in construction of even two or three-stage tuned radio-frequency circuits. The controls are so intricate and the balance so delicate that it is almost impossible to tune them.

On the dial

This intricacy has been avoided in the super-pilodyne by the simple method of creating a bank of variable condensers, all tuned at the same time by a single dial working the condensers by means of worm gear arrangement. The condensers are electro-statically shielded from one another and are adjusted beforehand for greatest efficiency under the single control.

The only other control on the set is the dial for the antenna inductance.

Farrand's design is such that from three to ten stages of radio-frequency may be used.

Oscillation is avoided by use of a new principle by which any number of radio-frequency stages may be employed. Between the grid and the

plate of each tube Farrand has connected a non-inductive, low capacity resistance, which changes the phase of the coupling current flowing between the grid and plate circuits, nullifies most of the feedback caused by the capacity of the circuit and the tube, and absorbs what remains as it is fed back.

Resistances

Says Farrand: "The value of resistances necessary to nullify the grid to plate coupling is dependent upon the design of the tube, as well as the circuit, and is not critical. For storage battery tubes now in commercial production, a resistance ranging between 25,000 and 75,000 ohms gives satisfactory performance for multistage operation. One hundred thousand ohms is a satisfactory value for the present day coil tubes and may vary between 50,000 and 125,000 ohms."

Describing his hook-up further, Farrand goes on:

"A condenser is inserted in series with the resistance between grid and plate to prevent the plate battery from flowing through it to the filament. It is purely a blocking condenser and may range between 1 microfarad to .001 microfarad and is only needed to permit the amplifier tubes to be operated on common plate battery."

Transformers

"The transformer windings should preferably be tightly coupled. A suitable design consists of 100 turns of No. 25 E. & G. wire on a tube, two inches in diameter and 2 1/2 inches in length, comprising the secondary. The primary should be wound with about 25 turns of the same wire on a concentric cylindrical tube of about 1 1/2 inches in diameter."

"The primary is wound in opposite direction to the secondary. The end of the primary winding directly under the grid end of the secondary should be connected to the plate battery. The other terminals follow as usual.

"The secondary tuning condenser should have a capacity of .00025 mfd."

Three-Stage Radio

Farrand gave a hook-up for three stages of radio, a detector and two stages of audio-frequency amplification, and showed how regenerative amplification, equal in increased volume to two stages of audio, may be obtained. This is done by omitting the nullifying resistance of the third radio stage and controlling the feed-back by means of a potentiometer on the grid of the same tube.

Equal results may be obtained by use of a variometer in the plate circuit of the detector tube. But if this is done the nullifying resistance on the third radio tube must remain.

"In the use of three stages of radio-frequency amplification without regeneration," Farrand says, "it is not necessary to take any particular precautions, except disposing the transformers at right angles, and using care to provide for short grid leads, and that the grid lead of one tube does not run close to the grid lead of another."

Tested out recently, Farrand reports he was able to tune out, without regeneration, a 492-meter station in New York to receive the signals of a 500-meter station in Philadelphia.

WILL BROADCAST NURSERYMEN'S TALK

Radio broadcasting station WGY, at Schenectady, N. Y., will broadcast a nurserymen's talk Monday afternoon, March 24, at 2:20 o'clock. The speaker will be furnished by the firm of Knight & Bostwick, nurserymen, of Newark, N. J. A second talk on the same subject will be given one week from Monday at the same time.

These talks are for "home lovers" and property owners and will include suggestions for the improvement of property by scientific planting. Gradually, the time of planting, what to plant and the care of plants, will be dealt with by the lecturer.

Detailed Description of House Plan Illustrated on Page 7

This house is a combination of New England Colonial and Prairie style. It is a full two-story type. It will require a lot 40 to 44 feet in width. It is planned to be built of frame construction upon masonry foundation, brick base course. Wide clapboards are used for the first story, smooth siding or shingles for second story and shingle roof.

There are four main rooms, dining room, bathroom and two closets. A full basement under the entire house contains laundry, heating room and fuel bins.

This house is practically a square plan in type and one that builds economically. The sun-parlor is a feature; also the inside fireplace. Here is economy, comfort, convenience at reasonable building cost.

Cubic contents of the house are approximately 18,000 feet, and the cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in but not including wall decorations, should range between $5,000 and $6,000. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the

lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

Editor's note: The plans for small houses are furnished by the national bureau of the Architects' Small House Service, an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects and has the endorsement of the department of commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service at moderate cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of The Sun. The United States bureau maintains an information department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclose stamped addressed envelope.

O'Hair, who give title to James G. and Tasia Leonardis, Mr. and Mrs. Leonardis purchase for investment purposes.

An important transfer is that of the ten-acre estate on High street, Chelmsford Centre, whereby Roland E. Mayall, an executor for the Marjorie H. Bager estate, conveys title to Francis G. Bager. The house is a two-story building, and is advantageously located in a choice section of Chelmsford. The purchase is made for a home, and the new owners, who are already in occupancy, are making extensive alterations.

In Tyngsboro Donald E. McKay conveys to Charles and Adelaide Berger, a 50-acre farm. Mr. and Mrs. Berger will occupy the premises.

WOMEN ARE FOUND GUILTY OF LARCENY

Lucy Lavallo and Florence Hartwell were both found guilty of the larceny of two and three-quarters yards of cloth from the A. G. Pollard Co., and were ordered to pay fines of $10 each in district court this morning.

A week ago today the Lavallo woman appeared on the above charge and was continued until today. The Hartwell woman was arrested here at that time, and was arrested herself, on the same complaint, last Tuesday.

Before the actual trial this morning, Cornelius J. O'Neill and William D. Hays, counsel for the accused, entered an objection to the reading of the complaint, which charged both women with the larceny. They contended that the complaint was originally made out for the Lavallo woman and that the Hartwell woman's name was added later. The court ruled that both women's names were on the original complaint. A lively discussion ensued between counsel and the government over the technicality. Sergt. Thos. McElroy, who signed the complaint, testified that he couldn't remember whether he signed for two names or for one, as he signed without looking closely. Deputy Downey defended the Hartwell name was on the complaint, but was not read as she had not been formally arrested.

Raymond P. Bourgeois, assistant clerk of court, testified under oath that the handwriting on the complaint was his and that both names were attached at the time of the first reading. Arthur Groulx, court reporter for the Boston Herald, testified that he saw the complaint on March 15.

HOT DEBATE IN SENATE 130 TOURISTS STRANDED

Tea Pot Dome and Daugherty Disclosures Theme of Sizzling Clashes Today

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The Tea Pot Dome and Daugherty disclosures became the theme of another sizzling debate in the senate today when Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, undertook to reply to various criticisms recently directed at him and some of his colleagues.

Starting with the recent Boston speech of Speaker Gillett in which he characterized the senate as a "school for scandal," Senator Caraway declared the house, over which Mr. Gillett presides, "has sunk to the lowest point in its history, as a legislative body."

Referring to the famous "principal" telegram, Senator Caraway insisted that the testimony of Ira Bennett of the Washington Post, who said the "principal" was Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, was an attempt to "smear" Curtis' character.

"I know that Curtis wasn't the 'principal,'" he declared. "Who does the senator mean by 'principal'?" asked Senator Stanford, republican, Oregon, a member of the committee.

"Principal" in what?

"Oh, if the senator wasn't so busy keeping witnesses from answering questions, he would know who the 'principal' was," Senator Caraway declared. "Who objected when Will Hays was questioned about the contributions to the republican campaign funds?"

"Senator Stanford," he replied, "and I was within my rights."

Redmond Co., Inc., investment brokers, now in the hands of receivers in a statement today said that he was working on a plan which he felt confident would make it possible to pay 100 per cent to all creditors of the firm. "This plan," he said, "I shall submit to the receivers and hope it shall have their favorable consideration and full co-operation. It has been published that the liabilities of the firm are $10,000,000. That cannot be correct—merely a guess. My guess is that the liabilities will not exceed $3,000,000. But the customers want facts, not guesses. With this in mind I have requested that auditors representing the company be permitted to have access to the books. It is my desire that a settlement be offered that is acceptable and satisfactory to creditors."

HOT DEBATE IN SENATE 130 TOURISTS STRANDED

Tea Pot Dome and Daugherty Disclosures Theme of Sizzling Clashes Today

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The Tea Pot Dome and Daugherty disclosures became the theme of another sizzling debate in the senate today when Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, undertook to reply to various criticisms recently directed at him and some of his colleagues.

Starting with the recent Boston speech of Speaker Gillett in which he characterized the senate as a "school for scandal," Senator Caraway declared the house, over which Mr. Gillett presides, "has sunk to the lowest point in its history, as a legislative body."

Referring to the famous "principal" telegram, Senator Caraway insisted that the testimony of Ira Bennett of the Washington Post, who said the "principal" was Senator Curtis, republican, Kansas, was an attempt to "smear" Curtis' character.

"I know that Curtis wasn't the 'principal,'" he declared. "Who does the senator mean by 'principal'?" asked Senator Stanford, republican, Oregon, a member of the committee.

"Principal" in what?

"Oh, if the senator wasn't so busy keeping witnesses from answering questions, he would know who the 'principal' was," Senator Caraway declared. "Who objected when Will Hays was questioned about the contributions to the republican campaign funds?"

OLCOTT MOTORS
HANDLING FORD

Introducing today a brand new Ford Motor car agency—the third to
be established in the city of Lowell
and already conducting a flourishing
business in Ford products of the car,
truck and tractor types.

Spacious and handsome and commodious quarters in the attractive new Robbins mercantile block
of substantial size at 19, 23 and 25
Arch street directly across the Boston & Maine tracks opposite Middle-
sex street station, the sales and service station of the new Olcott Motor
picture.

That the Lowell territorial field
for the Ford motor car interests has not been pre-empted by other progressive concerns that have hitherto
controlled local sales and service,
goes without saying. The new concern that has leased commodious
quarters in the new Robbins building
on Arch street, is already assured of an Arch street, is already assured of
good business in all the Ford lines,
including the two Olcott show-
rooms and the spacious service station are today alive with industry of
the motor car brand.

Alert, far-seeing men of experience
head the Olcott Motor company.
Harry S. Olcott, president and treasurer of the recently organized Lowell
corporation, was for 11 years a member of the chief executive forces at
the main Ford corporation plant in Detroit. He is a business executive
with rare intuition and knows the
great possibilities of the central Massachusetts field, as yet undeveloped even in the vicinity of Low-
ell. Mr. Olcott, who announced on Wednesday the formal opening of the
new Ford car sales and service
agency on Arch street, is prepared to
conduct one of the most active selling and distribution campaigns a
motor car representative ever attempted.

In the new Ford mart just opened
for public inspection, all the new
models of "The Universal Car" are
now exhibited in their improved body
shapes and improved mechanisms.
Touring cars equipped with the new sweeping lines, ramshorn trim and sturdy in appearance, comes entirely
new in design and construction;
four-door sedan of aristocratic appearance, truck chassis of the one-ton
label and Fordson tractors are now on
exhibition in the large bay-windowed
show rooms. Visitors are welcome at any time. The service station is fully
equipped with all Ford accessories of
every conceivable description. It is
the aim of the Olcott Motor company
to meet all the demands of the people of Lowell wanting or desiring to own some of the Ford company's
products. Convenient payment terms
can be easily made to suit every buyer.

Competent salesmen and repairmen
are in charge of the necessary and service departments. Mr. Olcott is fortunate indeed in acquiring the services of Francis J. Sullivan, who is in charge of the Ford parts department. Mr. Letterman assists in the
sales rooms.

Mr. Olcott is a staunch believer in retaining property. Ford car sales in all sections of the country indicate better business and more employment on the way, he confidently believes. Ford car sales and orders
have thus far taxed the Ford company's production plants, and they
are always good barometers. He advises prospective Lowell and vicinity
purchasers to file their orders
early if they expect to receive their
cars for use this spring.

CLEANING & DYEING
COMPANY POPULAR

All roads lead to the progressive
Up-to-Date Cleaning and Dyeing company's commodious quarters at 81
Moody street, in the spring of the year.
Popularity is the winning motto at this
busy home of industry in the heart of Lowell, opposite city hall.

Mr. Samuel H. Plonkin, one of the best known members of the cleaning
and dyeing trade in New England, who
only four years ago took over a long-
established piece of business at 81
Moody street, has enlarged the quarters to meet steadily increasing pa-tronnage, and has also installed many
new equipments of the modern kind
to efficiently handle discriminating customer demands.

Today, the Plonkin home of the
cleaning and dyeing trade is flourish-
ing with increasing demands made up-
on the various departments where the
intimate work of renewal and repairing of garments for men, women and
children patrons is industriously carried on.

Mr. Plonkin takes pride in the cleaning and dyeing trade. He has a host of regular patrons, who depend
exclusively upon the Up-to-Date company for all clothing pressing, dyeing
and repairing. Only expert workmen
are employed. Prices for all required
work are lower than the average quotations for similar work, this being a real feature of the Plonkin service at all times. Service is the Plonkin establishment motto also, with equal
prompt attention given to large and
small work assignments.

Customers come to the Moody street
cleaning establishment from many sections of Middlesex county. Parcel
post and express deliveries are made
daily to such towns as Billerica, Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Uxbridge and towns farther outside the Lowell zone. Mr. Plonkin's policy is never
to disappoint a customer. If work
does not meet expectations or come up
to qualifications, there is never any
charge for work done. Courteous attention to all patrons who call or send goods by messenger, has always been
the rule, and all work performed at
the cleaning establishment is delivered according to specifications.

Many new departures have taken place at the Plonkin establishment.
Since the courteous manager, whose friends in Lowell and vicinity are steadily increasing, became proprietor,
the quarters are now colored sufficiently to take care of the increased
patronage, much new machinery now
being employed as required in the industrial processes that go to make up the identical, wholesome establishment for the sanitary handling of
personal wear and household clothing of human origin. Plonkin started in the business of cleaning and dyeing in the
city of Boston, where he learned his trade. He came to Lowell and for a short period conducted an establishment on Gorham street. His venture
to Moody street proved a marked success from the start and he is gratified to find that the Plonkin place of business an excellent place to patronize regularly as the seasons
change from year to year.

BIKE COMING BACK
SAYS BACHELDER

The bicycle is coming back. It has
been coming back for some time past.
The wide-awake representatives of the
historic George H. Bachelder sport-
ing goods concern in Postoffice square,
say so and they ought to know.

The Bachelder store is known all over
New England and points outside New England. For 22 years the sterling
name of George H. Bachelder has been
familiar in the world of bicycle-dom.
The friendly originator of the sporting goods business in Lowell is no
more, but his name still lives over the
busy doors of the ever-busy Bachelder
sporting goods house in Postoffice
square—a Mecca for lovers of the great
outdoors first, last and all the time,
in all four seasons of the year.

Here, since the year 1916, Arthur H.
Bachelder has continued the business
so firmly established in the hearts of
all good sportsmen of the realm of the great open spaces heretofore.
Here the Bachelder spirit, the Bachel-
der id is germinated 22 years ago, still
thrives and prospers in vigorous fashion. Bluntly, every sportsman, man,
woman and child, in Lowell and many Middlesex county towns, knows where
"Bachelder's" is.

"The Bicycle Shop" it is generally
termed in circles of favorite sport categories, and bicycle shop it certainly is,
with its 1924 array of new models in Hartfords, Red Wings, Indians, Crows
and other popular makes of the two-
wheels. Not only is the display and
variety of popular makes of bicycles
much larger this season, but the values
are low. Demand is steadily increasing for the "bike." Men and women
are becoming attached to them again,
for they are money-savers, time-savers
and cost but little to buy, ride and
"park." Speaking of the growing popularity of the bicycle today, Bachelder
said:

A few advantages of the bicycle to-
day. A hot dinner at home, no garage
expense, can be parked anywhere, original cost only cost, gives exercise you
need with little exertion. Your car-
fare for the time saved by riding a
bicycle will be a surprise to you if
saved up; will pay for the wheel in a short time, in fact, if you imagine there
are no bicycles ridden today, just count
them as they go by every day in the
year and you'll be surprised.

The popular Bachelder store of famous name carries the most complete
lines of up-to-date sporting goods in Lowell. There are children's velocipedes, go-carts, express wagons of the
"Speed King" brand for youth; bicycle
tires and all bicycle accessories, etc., except, repairs, etc., handle bars,
luggage carriers, etc.

All lines of sporting goods and accessories in demand have been greatly
increased for this year's business. There
are baseballs, bats, footballs, basket-
balls, cages, masks, uniforms for all
classes of sports and regalia of all kinds
necessary to meet the outdoor programs
of healthful activities.

"You'll find it at Bachelder's," has
been a slogan for years in Lowell
sporting goods circles, and the slogan
stands today, as faithful a motto as
any business firm could carry.

Nothing spectacular here at Bachel-
der's. Just a favorite mart of trade
for those who want quality goods in
the sporting lines represented, and
who can always depend upon the
"Bachelder" label first, last and all the
time.

YD BATTERY
SERVICE HERE

Optimism reigns this spring at the
popular Y-D Battery service station at
No. 37 Church street. Although not a Lowell mercantile establishment of ancient lineage, the youthfulness of this
enterprising and rapidly growing home
industry, backed by energetic men
with a manager of expert ability in all
branches of electrical starting, lighting
and ignition requirements, paves the
way for success.

Manager L. E. Foster is the man "on
the job" day and night at this modern
battery service station. The business is devoted exclusively to this branch of the automobile industry, and the Foster-managed concern, established only
since last September, 1923, has been meeting promptly increasing demands
for its great variety of automobile
power replacement necessities and related advice.

The service station on Church st. carries only the best specialties in starting,
lighting and ignition requirements—
standard goods always. Only high-
quality materials are employed in all
work installed, or where readjust-
ments and repairs are necessary.

In the battery department, Manager
Foster handles only the famous Philadelphia Diamond Grid battery that
won't buckle and won't warp is always
fully guaranteed.

Efficient service is also guaranteed in the battery and ignition departments. Calls come morning, noon

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

"Hello!" he nodded pleasantly. "Can't you come in a minute?"

Down the beanstalk came the Twins from Bensinik Land. Not like Jack had done the time the giant chased him, but slowly and carefully, reaching down with their toes to find safe places to put their feet.

Suddenly one of the big beans opened and out came a little green man. "Hello!" he nodded pleasantly. "Can't you come in a minute?"

"Yes," said the little man. "But I was not intended that you should see me then. I'm the Bensinik Fairy and I can make myself invisible whenever I wish. The Fairy Queen told me you were going to Bensinik Land, and asked me to go with you to see that you were not in any danger."

"Where did you keep yourself?" "Come in and I'll tell you all about it," invited the green man. So the Twins went into the queer little house and sat down.

"It was right beside you on all your adventures in Bensinik Land," said the green man. "When you fell out of the Dutch giant's pocket, it was I who guided you so that you fell safely onto Snap's back."

"And when Snap chased the rabbit, I caused you to fall on the sunbonnet of the giant's wife. When you fell into the milk pail, I made her think you were flies and fished you out. I told the ant to come along and carry you away, and when you climbed the rose bush, I helped you up. When you fell off the dinner table, I caused you to drop into the giant woman's thimble, and then into the seven-league boots. I led you to the corn field and helped to discover the king's treasure, and rescued you from drowning in the drain when the king's cat left you there."

"Oh, I'm sure we are ever and over and over so much obliged," said Nancy. "We often wondered why nothing ever happened to us, but we thought it was our magic green shoes."

"They helped, too," said the little man, "but one cannot be too safe in a country where everything is so big, and you are so little. Have you had a nice time?"

"Splendid," said Nick. "Were you with us when the fiddler fooled the people at the fair and pretended that the fiddle was howled?"

"Yes," nodded the little man, "and

THREE-DAY WEEK AVERAGE IN EXCELLENT PROGRAM OF LOCAL MILLS NOWADAYS

Uncertainty Still in the Saddle—Woolen Mills Show Improvement While Cotton Manufacturers Mark Time—Financial Statements of Local Concerns

Continuing stagnant business, heavily curtailed employment conditions and uncertainty in market demand outlooks continue to be the rule in Lowell cotton industries. No Lowell textile mill is operating all departments. Many hundreds of men and women employed in plants running on reduced three or four day schedules, are not able to secure steady work more than two days at a time in several textile mills where production is irregular, small orders the rule and steady employment very uncertain.

Large numbers of textile workers report at mill gates on Monday mornings, not knowing whether they will work two days or four days in the departments where they toil. Some of the weave departments that were, in normal production times, the busiest places in the local textile world, are today closed tight.

Workers say there appears to be no preparation of any kind being made in several of the largest corporations for innovations and future business, aside from customary machine repair pursuits.

Local textile mills, with one exception, have made no extreme curtailments thus far, although payrolls have been substantially reduced during the past three months before of short-time running schedules called for by the mill owners, who have been unable, they claim, to operate on a fluctuating raw cotton and made-goods market that holds no fair margin for production considering the low prices of goods produced.

The reduction of the weekly earnings time at the Massachusetts mills this week, from four to three days, and the report that business in the line of goods produced by this widely known corporation has been greatly reduced through lack of orders in all wholesale markets, puts one more Lowell mill of standard proportions on the list of "three-days."

Local textiles now operating on what may be termed a "three-day basis," include the Massachusetts Manufacturing company and the Hamilton mills. The Merrimack, continues with four-day schedules, while the Appleton remains unchanged on similar curtailed time schedules.

The woolen mills of the city and nearby towns, are more increasing their business all along the line. Strangely enough, perhaps, with the cotton industries showing no reawakening and market conditions entirely against any ambitious cotton cloth producer who would try to operate and play the markets, the remarkable increase in business reported by many New England woolen mills during the past thirty days, has caused no little wonderment in textile circles in general.

Local Woolen Improvement
Local woolen concerns, notably the Ray State and the Muskegetau, have shown steady production records and receipts of wool materials unchecked. Today, shipments of wool are arriving in Lowell and vicinity for mills constructing woolen goods, by truck and car loads. The immense highway trucking vans are a common sight on the Boston-Lowell, Lowell and Lawrence highways. Many wool shipments are also passing through Lowell for New Hampshire points, but cotton shipments into Lowell are few and far between.

Flourish compiled by freight agents in New Bedford, Lowell, Fall River, Lawrence and Manchester, for the month of February and up to March 15, show that there were less than 60,000 bales of cotton in all received in all of these centers put together for the period named.

It is doubtful if the cotton re-

The complete program for the Park lecture in the Memorial Auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock has just been announced. Miss Edith Margaret Small of Wellesley college will give an unusual interpretation of the famous poem about the Habitant of Old Quebec, and Francis Nowell, the brilliant young tenor, will sing two groups of songs. Miss Margaret Witherington will be the accompanist for Mr. Nowell.

Miss Small is a native of Montreal and during the summers of her childhood became intimately acquainted with the "Habitant" along the St. Lawrence. By her faultless interpretation of the dialect of the French-Canadian she makes the audience see the characters as she speaks.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 21

Old faithful Flip in the meantime had broken loose from the rope that held him in the hermit's tent. With a great leap the dog pounced down right in front of his master. This woke Jack up and you can imagine how surprised he was. "Go after them!" shouted Jack. "Go get them, Flip!"

And there probably would have been a real fight between the bear, fox, porcupine and Flip if the old hermit hadn't grabbed Flip and held him. "These animals won't hurt you," laughed the hermit. "They are pets of mine. Call your dog and I'll send them all away." So Jack told Flip to lie down.

When the faithful dog realized that his master was in no danger he quieted down. Then the hermit explained that he had made friends with all the animals in the woods. "Just be kind to them and they will never bother you," he said. Then he sent the three animals back to the dense woods. (Continued.)
